The story that Ed Yost told to a service club about giving a hitch-hiker one dollar, was received more facetiously than seriously, but in a confidential interview, Ed tells me he really did it. The man had been engaged in a prune harvest in California, had got as far as Colorado on his way back to Pennsylvania, and then became stranded. That is a long distance to come to harvest prunes, but there are a lot of Californians who will claim it is worth it.

In case you are interested War Admiral will race at Santa Anita this winter. Now if some one will send me a pass I'll see War Admiral race at Santa Anita this winter.

Some how or other, I'm not enthusiastic about these racing events. They bring too many requests for transportation which cannot be supplied, and cost too much money if you tackle the betting machines.

Most candidates I have encountered have expressed the feeling that they will be glad when the election is over, win or lose. Campaigns are becoming so expensive, and so irritating, the candidate has got to have the hide of an armadillo to go through the fight. What do you ever thought you were, you are, even if it isn't so. The reputation you did not have some one gives it to you before the campaign is over. That's why many good men shy at public office.

I'm not worrying about "You Can't Take It With You." Smoother operators than I look mine long ago so I haven't anything to take. That's full immunity.

And then there was the fellow who found himself in jail who called to a friend to tell him they "couldn't do that" to him. His friend concluded they not only could but had.

You can get almost as many opinions about the orange industry as there are oranges.

Politics does make strange bedfellows. Irvin Cobb, "pizen Democrat," has moved over into the Merriam camp, and there are in all probability ungenerous Republicans who prefer the Olson berth. If you are a victim of some nebulism you're safe.

Alexander Pope said "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." If you "ain't goin' any place," be careful where you find yourself.

Business wants more freedom from the government and labor wants more. Which starts the inquiry: What price government?

It is all right to leave the rod with which you wind up the awning hanging from the iron bars, but if some one comes along and gives the rod a swing the glass man will come along later and put in a new display window.

New photographic plates reveal what the sun is made of, say scientists. Gee, if they ever apply that method to human life a lot of us'll look like a rummage sale.

After talking with economists and scientists and pathologists and psychiatrists I have decided that what this country needs is more money.

An expert declares that America is 100 years behind in health. That's too late to do a lot of people any good.

There is a fundamental rule in economics that you can't get something for nothing, but that doesn't prevent a lot of people from trying to get it.

And this was the morning I had to listen to Bob Andrews read the minutes of the last meeting, which fellow members approve without hearing him. That is a customary courtesy of the ham and egg, minus the thirty per week.

Prosecutor Tells Court of Vain Hunt for Letters

NEW YORK. (AP)—Federal officials who reported vital evidence in the government's spy case had disappeared were consoled late today when U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy, without explanation, brought the missing documents into court.

"Well, there they are," he said of a book containing photographic copies of eight letters which had been introduced as evidence in the trial of three alleged German spies.

He did not explain where the exhibits had been found.

NEW YORK. (AP)—A book containing photographic copies of eight letters introduced into evidence by the government at the German spy trial was missing today when the trial resumed.

The photographic copies, made at the direction of the British intelligence service, were of letters sent by Gunther Gustav Rummich, former U. S. army sergeant who pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence at the trial, to a German agent named Sanders in care of Mrs. Jessie Jordan at Dundee, Scotland.

SEARCH IN VAIN
In addition to the copies of seven Rummich letters, the book contained a photographic copy of one letter written to the same address by Rummich's brother from Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The staff of U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy's office, it was disclosed, made a prolonged and vain search for the missing documents before today's session started.

VOSS IDENTIFIED
For the second time at the trial, a woman pointed from the witness chair to lanky Otto Hermann Voss in the row of defendants as one of the visitors who conferred with William Lonkowski in his upstairs "work-room."

Mrs. Werner Gudenberg, whose husband is a missing defendant in the case, rose from the chair and bowed stiffly at Otto when asked, "Can you identify him?"

She said he was a friend of her husband and also of Lonkowski who fled to Germany following his arrest by customs agents.

IN AIRPLANE PLANT
Mrs. Gudenberg's husband was employed as a department foreman in the Curtiss-Wright airplane plant at Buffalo.

She said Lonkowski, accompanied by his wife and a Mrs. Beck, came to their home in Buffalo in June, 1935, and "introduced himself as a friend of Otto Hermann Voss, who, he said, had asked him to call on us."

She said they conversed in German which she didn't understand.

The government contends that Gudenberg and Voss, an aviation mechanic, turned over to Lonkowski for transmission to Germany aviation plans they obtained through their working connections.

ESPIONAGE HEAD
Gudenberg was said in the indictment to have been an assistant to Capt. Lieut. Erich Pfeiffer, chief of naval intelligence at Bremen. The government also claimed he was a director of espionage throughout the Americas for the third Reich.

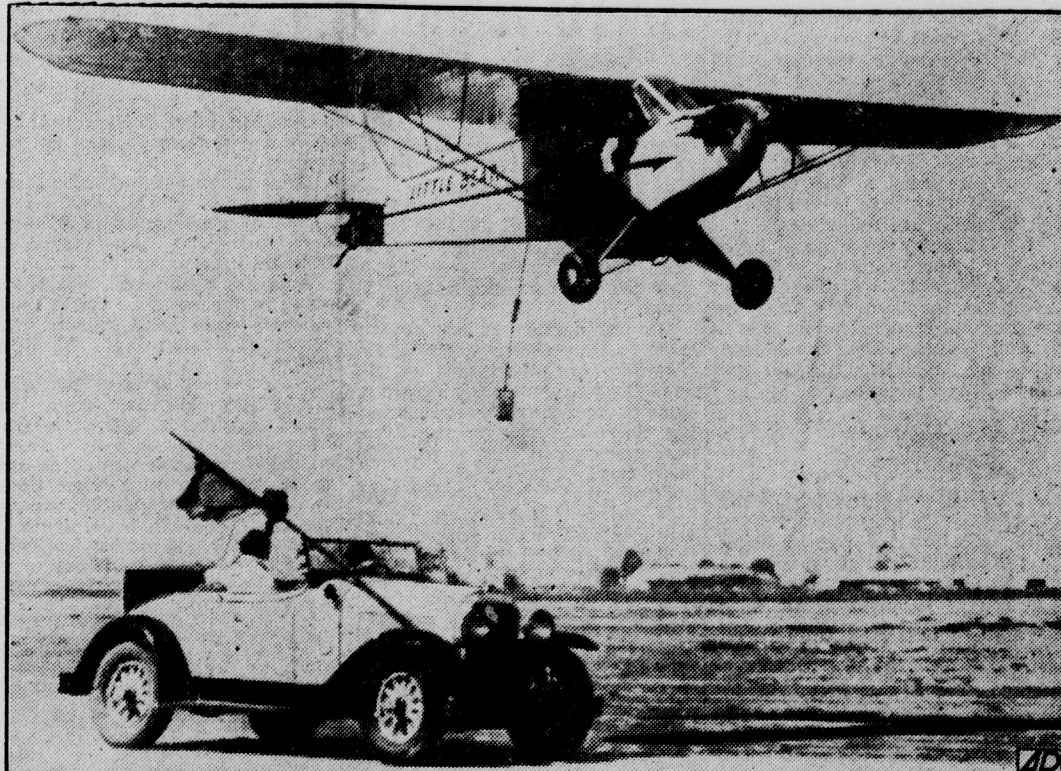

Photographs from negatives taken from Lonkowski by custom agents at the liner Europa's pier were shown to be plans of a secret experimental scout bomber built for the U. S. navy.

The government contends Lonkowski had brought the plans to the Europa for delivery to Germany by Karl Schuster, alleged messenger for the ring.

Pilots Switched in Endurance Hop

After nearly three days of flying over a dry lake near Lancaster, Calif., seeking a light plane endurance record, Thomas H. Smith became ill and quit the plane by parachute. Co-pilot Clyde Schleper dropped a rope ladder, by which Harley Long climbed into the ship from the servicing auto. A can of fuel is shown being hauled up from the car.

LID PUT ON DRAW POKER

County officials "cracked down" on draw poker parlors which have been opening quietly in the unincorporated areas.

Discovering a 24-year-old ordinance which plugs a loophole in the penal code provision against gambling, Deputy Dist. Atty. J. E. Walker talked with two men in Garden Grove this morning, warning them against opening the establishment they were preparing. The men previously had notified him they were about to open, Walker said.

Supervisors had been prepared to pass an ordinance outlawing draw poker, which is not prohibited by state law. That Walker said, will now be unnecessary because of ordinance 106, enacted Jan. 27, 1914, which he discovered on the books today.

The state penal code prohibits playing of stud poker, but says nothing about draw. The county ordinance, applying in unincorporated areas, prohibits playing or betting or any game for money, chips or things of value.

Ham and Eggs, Inc. Restaurant Sues Pension Backers

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Ham and Eggs, Inc., a corporation operating a restaurant, today sued the $30 Every Thursday Pension plan, which calls itself "Ham and Eggs of California"—for $50,000 damages.

The restaurant corporation charged many persons have been making its place of business a pension headquarters, and that some customers are boycotting the place.

A court order was issued requiring Willis Allen and 60 others of the pension group to appear Nov. 4 and show cause why they should not be enjoined from using the "Ham and Eggs" slogan.

Cup Missing, Cash Lacking For Winner

BOSTON. (AP)—The silver cup emblematic of the North Atlantic fishermen's championship could not be found today as the race committee assembled to make its presentation to Capt. Angus Walters, whose Canadian salt banker, Bluenose, retained the trophy by defeating the Gertrude L. Thebaud of the United States in a three out of five series.

Sputtering in anger, Captain Walters said: "That cup must be found—or else."

No sooner had the captain regained his composure than he was notified by a nervous race committee that the $3000 prize money, part of the original deed of gift, likewise was not immediately available.

The committee, after a hasty conference, told Captain Walters the money would be paid eventually but it had not been raised.

ALMA GLUCK, SINGER, DIES

NEW YORK. (AP)—Alma Gluck Zimbalist, famous opera singer of past years, and wife of Efrem Zimbalist, the violinist, died today. She was 54.

She died at Rockefeller Institute hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Zimbalist was born in Bucharest, Rumania, in 1884 and came to America in 1890.

She married Zimbalist on June 15, 1914. They had two children, Maria Virginia (Mrs. Ogden Goel) and Efrem.

Mrs. Zimbalist died on the 27th anniversary of her husband's debut.

CIO Wins Writ On Mayor Hague

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—The CIO and allied organizations won a federal court order today restraining Mayor Frank Hague and fellow Jersey City officials from "deporting" members or interfering with their rights to speak in public parks, distribute leaflets and carry parades.

Filing of the suit followed interruption of the CIO's attempt last November to distribute literature and organize workers in Jersey City—a move which Hague called an "invasion."

JAP ARMIES PUSH ONWARD

SHANGHAI. (AP)—The Japanese conquerors of Canton and Hankow pushed ahead today with three objectives.

One was to disperse Chinese troops retreating from Hankow, erstwhile provisional capital which fell Tuesday, before they could consolidate new positions.

Another was to occupy 685 miles of railway linking Canton, conquered last week, and Hankow.

The third called for the penetration of intervening areas in Kwangtung (Canton), Kiangsi, Hunan and Hupeh (Hankow) provinces.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies were taking up positions southwest of Hankow, and claimed to have repulsed Japanese attacks designed to cut the railway north of Sienning.

Pushing from the north and the south, the Japanese concentrated efforts on slicing off 50 miles of rail at each end of the Canton-Hankow line.

BODY STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Body of a well-dressed man discovered floating in the ocean half a mile from shore early Tuesday was still unidentified today, Corner Earl Abbey reported.

The body discovered by H. E. Ruggles, Corona Del Mar fisherman, is at the Dixon and Grauel funeral chapel in Costa Mesa. The man was well dressed and apparently had been dead only a short time before discovery.

It was the third body to be discovered along Orange county's coastline within the past two weeks.

F.D.R. Threatened; Writer Released

KANSAS CITY. (AP)—John Dean, 65, who pleaded guilty to a charge of sending threatening letters to President Roosevelt, was released today after three-year probation by Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, today.

"I feel I must come to Washington and kill you for the sake of my country, and I love my country passionately," one of the three letters to President Roosevelt read.

Daladier To Seek Nazi Tie

MARSEILLE. (AP)—Premier Daladier declared today his belief that France should achieve "loyal collaboration" with Germany and that France's future "resides in large part" in her overseas empire.

Addressing the national congress of his own Radical-Socialist party, the premier strongly indicated conviction that France's energies henceforth should find an outlet in her vast colonial possessions rather than in disputing leadership on the European continent with Germany.

HITS AT CRITICS
"I insist on the fact that France is an empire," Daladier declared in a speech that stressed equally his desire for Franco-Germany accord and insistence on turning French policy from Europe to Africa and Asia.

He said, however, that the basis of French diplomacy would continue to be close cooperation with Britain, and lashed out at critics who had called the peace of Munich a French surrender to Germany.

He declared that if he had been faced by an ultimatum at Munich he would have returned to Paris and called upon the French people to resist. The Munich pact, he asserted, as "an act of reason" had lasted 20 years.

TRIBUTE TO FDR
Daladier departed from the prepared text of his speech to pay tribute to President Roosevelt's peace efforts during the Munich crisis.

"I adhere with all my heart," he said, "to the principles he defined once more with his moving eloquence."

The premier announced that France's ordinary budget for 1939 would be 64,000,000,000 francs (about $1,728,000,000), but that extraordinary appropriations would bring the total of government spending to 102,000,000,000 francs (about $2,754,000,000).

He said that receipts under present circumstances would be only 66,000,000,000 francs (about $1,782,000,000), demonstrating the urgent need of increasing the national revenue.

TO DROP RUSSIA
Addressing a packed auditorium, the premier declared that there "are powerful reasons for mutual esteem" between the two countries "which must lead to loyal collaboration."

Before Daladier spoke, members of parliament attending the congress said France already had expressed willingness to drop her mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia in order to reach an agreement with Germany.

Declaring that French policy would correspond "to the elements of the new situation" in Europe, Daladier let it be understood that the government would seek a greater outlet for the nation's energy in its colonial empire rather than dispute continental leadership with the Nazi state.

N. Y. Romance Heads for Rocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—One of Broadway's best known romances—Ethel Shutta, blonde singing star, and George Olsen, orchestra leader—appeared today to be headed for an ending.

Miss Shutta said she would file suit for divorce within a few weeks, charging desertion, but that the parting was amicable and that an agreement had been reached on all arrangements including divided custody of their two children, Charles and George, Jr.

Talbot Improves; Friend Critical

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Lyle Talbot was on the road to recovery today from severe burns, but the condition of his actor friend, Franklin D. Parker, whom he rescued from the blazing Talbot house last Tuesday, continued to cause concern.

Hospital attendants said Parker was not expected to be "out of danger" for another 24 hours. He showed some improvement last night.

U. S. Protest Is Withheld From People

TOKYO. (AP)—The United States note demanding that "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China be stopped, will not be published in Japan.

The note was delivered to the Japanese government by United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew Oct. 6, but was divulged in Washington only today.

Although the note specifically requested a prompt reply, the Japanese foreign office said no definite date for answering it had been set.

Sources close to the government disclosed that Japan would take a "determined stand" in negotiating with foreign powers over rights and privileges they have enjoyed in China.

Informed Japanese, referring to the prospect of negotiations with third powers after peace has been restored, declared that foreign concessions and settlements in Shanghai, Canton, Hankow and Tientsin would be of particular concern.

War Minister Lieut.-Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, however, told the nation "the conflict has just begun."

"The armed dispute between China and Japan will be little affected by the fall of the Wuhan area," General Itagaki declared in a statement on the Yangtze valley victory.

"The victory should not relax the nation's mind. The people must devote all efforts toward long term construction. . . . The only way to console the spirits of the fallen is to attain the objectives of our holy crusade and thereby meet the expectations of the throne."

THE prevailing atmosphere was one of relief rather than extreme jubilation.

Tokyo, however, celebrated the capture of China's erstwhile provisional capital with none of the spontaneity of the rejoicing over earlier victories.

Fannie Brice and Rose Divorced

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Another legal barrier in the path of the romance between Billy Rose, the theatrical promoter, and Eleanor Holm Jarrett, the mermaid actress, was lifted today when Fannie Brice won a divorce from her man.

The stage comedienne, best known for her mournful rendition of "My Man," told a superior court judge today that he had deserted her and would not return.

HUNGARIANS WANT ACTION

BUDAPEST. (AP)—The Hungarian cabinet decided today to send a new note to Czechoslovakia on Hungary's territorial claims, and observers predicted the message would be severe in its terms.

It was believed the cabinet, which met to consider Prague's acceptance of the Hungarian plan to let Germany and Italy mediate their territorial dispute, would demand occupation of undisputed areas in Slovakia at once. Such occupation would be by easy stages.

Authoritative sources had said the ministers would act quickly to induce the Nazi-Fascist powers to press Czechoslovakia to withdraw her troops and permit Hungarian soldiers to enter the areas in question.

President Serves Notice U. S. Will Protect This Hemisphere

NATIONS USING FORCE, EXILE CONDEMNED

NEW YORK. (AP)—The United States, through President Roosevelt, served notice on the world today it would protect the western hemisphere from foreign interference and, while desiring disarmament, would not disarm "while neighbor nations arm to the teeth."

The President, in his first foreign policy since the Czechoslovakian crisis, made a virtually unprecedented shattering condemnation of nations which employ force, exile and repression as instruments of national policy.

He declared that the government of foreign nations "must not threaten the world with the disaster of a world war and asserted no useful purpose is served to suggest 'either to the American people or the peoples of other nations that the American government in its policies, its practices and its servants are actuated by motives of dishonor or corruption."

"To do so, he said, 'is, of necessity, an attack on the American system of constitutional representative government itself.'"

The President voiced his views last night in an address broadcast from the White House to the eighth annual New York Herald Tribune forum of current problems.

The chief executive followed his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, who urged the United States to initiate resumption of world economic conferences as a vital step toward peace, and Viscount Halifax, the British foreign minister.

The British cabinet minister, in a broadcast from London, urged the United States to join hands with Great Britain in establishing world peace, and again defended his nation's course in the recent crisis.

Sitting before a microphone in the Oval room of the White House, President Roosevelt deplored armaments competition, but asserted that until foreign nations give something more than verbal assurances that they desire disarmament—until disarmament discussions are actually started, the United States must arm "to meet with success any application of force against us."

And without mentioning either the Munich conference which averted war over the partitioning of Czechoslovakia or measures taken against racial groups in certain European countries, the President arraigned conditions under which there can be no peace.

"It is becoming increasingly clear," he said, "that peace by fear has no higher or more enduring quality than peace by the sword."

"There can be no peace if the reign of law is to be replaced by a recurrent sanctification of sheer force."

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the threat of war."

"There can be no peace if national policy adopts as a deliberate instrument the dispersion all over the world of millions of helpless and persecuted wanderers with no place to lay their head."

"There can be no peace if humble men and women are not free to think their own thoughts, to express their own feelings, to worship God."

"There can be no peace if economic resources that ought to be devoted to social and economic reconstruction are to be diverted to an intensified competition in armaments which will merely heighten the suspicions and fears and threaten the economic prosperity of each and every nation."

London Sees Roosevelt Talk As Implied Slap at Munich Peace; Officials Silent

LONDON. (AP)—President Roosevelt's speech against "peace by fear" appeared today to offer new ammunition at a strategic time for critics of maintaining peace through concessions to dictators.

These critics saw the President's broadcast last night as an implied slap at the peace of Munich, which became the direct issue in a parliamentary by-election at Oxford today.

Officials made no comment, but political quarters attached significance insofar as the Munich record was concerned to Mr. Roosevelt's assertion "peace by fear has no higher or more enduring quality than peace by the sword."

The President's references to Jewish problems were at a particularly embarrassing time for Britain. Faced by the danger that the Arab revolt against Jewish immigration in Palestine may spread elsewhere in the far east, the government has begun to curtail the influx to Palestine.

The London press gave much space to the speech, broadcast only to the United States, and editorially applauded it as the government answer to broadcasts to America critical of the Munich peace by Winston Churchill and David Lloyd George.

German Editor Suggests Roosevelt Remember Indians

BERLIN. (AP)—The controlled German press today sharply criticized President Roosevelt's address warning against "peace by fear" and his mention of "dispersion all over the world of millions of helpless and persecuted wanderers."

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt advised him to "remember the Indians when sobbing about the Jews."

The Berlin Lokalanzeiger said his mention of foreign armaments and their purposes was merely an apology for America's own armament program.

DNE (official German news agency) captioned its brief account of the President's broadcast last night: "Election speech of Roosevelt at the expense of other countries."

Both the news agency and the Lokalanzeiger contrasted his address with that of former President Hoover, especially emphasizing Mr. Hoover's description of the four-power Munich accord as a contribution to peace.

A steamer headline on Lokalanzeiger's front page read: "Former President Hoover Versus Roosevelt," and said, "Hoover, in contrast with Roosevelt, was able to base his arguments upon observation personally made in Europe."

"He drew the honest deduction that, in his opinion, no general war could be expected."

"If anyone talks of scattering helpless people, one is inevitably reminded of the fate accorded the Indians," the Fremdenblatt said.

"Neither Germany nor Europe has any desire constantly to be confronted by ethical maxims which have not been part and parcel of American practice."

ROME. (AP)—The Fascist newspaper La Tribuna today said President Roosevelt's speech of last night "fits quite well into the picture of contemporary democratic, Jewish and Masonic activity."

The newspaper said the speech showed that Jews constituted the "real reason rather than the pretext which impels democratic governments to arm themselves to the point of congestion."

Three Orange county men jailed this week on criminal conspiracy charges in the "Fools Rush In" pamphlet case were all free on bail today, preparing defenses which may cause preliminary hearing on the charges to last several days.

Charles Ott was released from the county jail last night after arranging for a $500 surety bond from a local bank. Ott had reduced the amount of Ott's bail from $1000, sum fixed by Justice Kenneth Morrison, to $500. G. F. McKelvey, suspended deputy sheriff, and J. Malcolm Green, young brother of a new political tabloid, both are free on bail.

Reports were that a long list of witnesses will appear in justice court beginning Saturday, when preliminary hearing for the three men begins. On Monday the three local defendants will be joined at the bar by Printers Burt Harwick and Robert Elliott and Distributor Eddie Taylor, jointly charged in the conspiracy complaint signed by R. H. Sandon, investigator for Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton.

McKelvey has subpoenaed every member of the specially called grand jury which questioned him at length during its probe of the defamatory political pamphlet.

Other witnesses, it was said, will be from both Orange and Los Angeles counties, as the prosecution attempts to link the six defendants with a conspiracy to commit criminal libel and violate election laws.

McKelvey was reported to be arranging his own defense; and it was not known whether or not Ott would be represented by counsel. W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana attorney, already has appeared for Green.

The grand jury had recessed today, following testimony yesterday from Russell S. Norton of Balboa Island on the juvenile home inquiry. Indications were the in-

'KEEP DOOR TO CHINA OPEN,' TOKYO WARNED

The note set forth that American interests have been largely squeezed out of Manchoukuo by Japan.

"In the opinion of my government," Ambassador Grew wrote, "equality of opportunity or the open door has virtually ceased to exist in Manchuria notwithstanding the assurances of the Japanese government that it would be maintained in that area."

The word "Manchuria" was used rather "Manchoukuo," Japanese term for the puppet state it made of Manchuria in 1932. The interference was that the United States has no intention of recognizing Manchoukuo.)

3 DEMANDS MADE The United States made three specific demands in the message: "1. The discontinuance of discriminatory exchange control and of other measures imposed in areas in China under Japanese control which operate either directly or indirectly to discriminate against American trade and enterprise."

"2. Discontinuance of any monopoly or of any preference which would deprive American nationals of the right of undertaking any legitimate trade or industry in China, or of any arrangement which might purport to establish in favor of Japanese interests any general superiority of rights with regard to commercial or economic development in any region of China; and,

"3. The discontinuance of interference by Japanese authorities in China with American property and other rights including such forms of interference as censorship of American mail and telegrams, and restrictions upon residence and travel by Americans and upon American trade and shipping."

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Gov. Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee to succeed himself, and Raymond L. Haight, his Progressive party opponent, were in "agreement" today on all but two points of the program Haight advocated when he announced he was abandoning active campaigning last week because of a shortage of funds.

The two points of Haight's plan which the governor indicated he could not follow, dealt with opposition to the state's agricultural prorate act and with creation of a "super-highway authority."

The governor also failed to oppose the Townsend plan as mandated by Haight, but indicated that any pension proposal enacted on a national basis might satisfy him.

EX-PREMIER UNDER ARREST

PRAGUE. (AP)—Andrew Brody, who resigned yesterday as premier of the autonomous government of Ruthenia, tonight was arrested on a charge of treason.

Police said he had been charged by the central parliamentary committee of the national government of negotiating with Hungary for the secession of Ruthenia from the Czechoslovak republic.

quists were through work for the week and would return this week only to appear as witnesses Saturday under McKelvey's subpoena.

Razor Sharpening and Door Pounding Charged by Wife Who Files Suit for Divorce

It's very disturbing to have your husband sit up all night, scraping his feet against the wall, pounding on the floor and whetting his razor, alleged Mrs. Linnie Woodward today in suing her husband, William J. Woodward, for divorce. She charged her husband last June sat up all night "wilfully disturbing plaintiff and kept her awake by scraping his feet against the wall, knocking on the door and making divers noises," besides whetting his razor and threatening to cut her throat.

Mrs. Woodward, married to the defendant June 4, 1919, asked a divorce on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport, plus a restraining order preventing him from molesting her.

Aimee's $119,000 Castle and Its $20,000 Worth of Gold Leaf Sold at Bargain Price

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson's Moorish castle, a $119,000 refuge with $20,000 worth of gold leaf wherein she forgot her evangelical cares, passed today into the hands of two hardware dealers — at a bargain price.

Back in the palmy 1920's, Sister Aimee built "El Minera" on an estate overlooking Lake Elsinore, and furnished its rooms in Oriental luxury.

Imported Chinese bric-a-brac stood in the spacious living room, against walls hand painted with scenes of Arabic and Egyptian festivals.

Black velvet covered the walls of the big dining room and a crystal chandelier, a ton in weight, hung overhead.

Jungle scenes decorated an ante room, whose ceiling was tinted like the night sky with moon and stars.

Peach, blue, silver and variegated colors were chosen for the bedrooms, while one bath was done in orchid and black and over the tub was painted a flotilla of swans.

"We purchased the estate as an investment for a fraction of its original cost," said the brothers, Roy and John Scantland, hardware merchants, today.

"Mrs. McPherson's business agent at Angelus Temple showed us invoices for the $119,000 spent on the place, and $20,000 of it was for gold leaf."

"Everything is in good shape—the expensive furnishings and appointments. A caretaker has been there continuously."

"We haven't decided yet, but it may be transformed into either a rest home or a military school."

More than 28,000 Tennessee farmers limed more than 250,000 acres of land in 1937 in an effort to combat soil acidity.

GEORGE AUGNE PLACES FIRST

George Augne won first place in the speaking contest at the weekly meeting of Smedley chapter of Toastmasters at Daniger's cafe last night. He spoke on the subject of "Fourth Down."

Second place was awarded to Frederic Dunstan, who spoke on "Bouncing Balls." Dunstan's talk was a sketch of the discovery and development of rubber.

Other speakers were Horace Engsign, "It Seems to Me," David Cherry, "It's Up to You," Dan Brown, "Air Defense," and Fred Walker on the subject, "Go West."

Ted Cook was toastmaster and Sam Long was general critic. President Warren Mendenhall presided. Guests include Ross Boyd, John Allen and Dana Washburn.

Nation Observes Navy Day by Stressing Need of Sea Power

MILLIONS PAY VISIT TO GAILY ARRAYED SHIPS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—America observed navy day today with gala, bunting-draped displays of her sea forces, but there was a serious note in the festivities.

While the naval service decked out in holiday array and ashore to receive millions of visitors, the sober business of building a fleet designed to meet any aggression went steadily on behind the scenes.

Two statements by President Roosevelt gave the annual observance a grimmer significance than was indicated by the waving flags, smart uniforms and lively bands.

The Chief Executive said in a radio speech last night that America must continue to arm "to meet with success any application of force against us" until other generals were willing to accept general disarmament.

In a letter to Secretary Swanson, Mr. Roosevelt declared the fleet must be ready to insure "positive protection against any aggressor."

Even as he wrote, humming shipyards and aircraft plants gave evidence of the accelerated pace of warship and plane construction started by this year's billion-dollar expansion act.

This navy day, the seventeenth, coincides with the eightieth anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt. In his letter to Swanson, the President recalled the words of his predecessor and distant kinsman:

In ports on the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts, in the Mediterranean, Caribbean and the eastern Pacific, American warships out on full dress. Sham battles, gun drills, aircraft demonstrations and public addresses by officers all played a part in the observance.

Officials and other who took the occasion to size up the nation's mounting sea power summarized the picture like this:

Twenty-two warships have been commissioned since last Navy day, including the huge aircraft carrier Enterprise and five cruisers.

Seventy-five craft, six of them 35,000-ton battleships, either are on the ways or about to be started. A year ago only 54 were being built.

Only Great Britain rivals the navy ships afloat or building. Largest figures showed 64 British warcraft under construction, aggregating 502,645 tons, compared with about 463,000 new American tonnage.

Britain has 377 ships aggregating 1,758,478 tons, against 419 American vessels of 1,514,585 tons.

Big Bear Lake Real Estate Deal Results In Suit

Suit for return of $62,500 and rescission of a contract for purchase of land near Big Bear lake was filed today in Santa Ana justice court by Ernest W. Gould against the Big Bear Lake and Water company and its agent, W. H. Rose.

Gould said Rose misrepresented facts to him last February, saying if he would make a down payment on the land that the firm would begin building a cabin, rent it and days a year while payments were being made.

On this representation Gould said he paid $62,500 down, and then found when the contract was delivered that the company would do nothing toward building the cabin until the property was entirely paid for.

Father Divine's Followers Want Names Legalized

NEW YORK, (AP)—Skipper Love, Faithful Sparrow, Wonderful Wisdom, and some 200 other followers of Harlem's Father Divine, negro evangelist, asked permission in court today to vote under their adopted names.

They said these names were the only names by which they are now known and contended they had just as much right to change from John Jones for instance, to Peace Wonderful, as a person does to change legally an unpronounceable name to one more readily spoken.

Among the petitioners were: Bunch of Love, Rolling Stone, Adoring Meekness, Virtue Bloom, Joy Dancer, Righteous J. Truth, and Faith Hope Charity.

'Honest Man' Gets Nickel, Loses Cash On Battery Job

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Walter P. Wrenn found a purse containing $70 and gave it to a woman in an automobile at his filling station who said she had lost it.

A man in the car handed Wrenn a nickel and said, "Go buy yourself a drink. I have found an honest man."

After the couple left, Wrenn asked one of his attendants if the man had paid for having his battery cleaned.

"No," the attendant replied. "He said he paid you."

Townsend News, Views

By
WALTER R. ROBB

The Laguna Beach Townsend Ladies' auxiliary meeting is scheduled for 10 A. M. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Mary S. Van Loenen, 384 North Coast boulevard. Box lunches will be enjoyed and the day will be spent in quilting and other needlework. This group of ladies plan to hold a rummage sale on Nov. 19. Mrs. Eva Clapp, president, will preside over a short business meeting which will be conducted during tomorrow's gathering.

Santa Ana Club No. 9 meeting will be held at 7:30 this evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ward at 2005 Orange avenue instead of in the Edison school as announced in last night's column. Entertainment will be provided by Rev. White of Laguna Beach.

The Anaheim Club No. 1 will meet this evening in the Townsend club building at 224 East Center street at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ida A. Freeman will preside. Other particulars are not known.

No word has been received this week from the Buena Park club, but this is the regular night for the club to meet in the Woman's clubhouse at Eleventh and Grand streets. Albert Palmer is president.

Santa Ana Club No. 3 meets at 7:30 this evening in Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street for a business meeting. Phillip S. Doolittle will preside.

Tune in on KVOE at 6:30 tonight for the second of a series of broadcasts which are being given in behalf of Townsend endorsed candidates. Tuesday night George Varnum of Le Habra was the speaker and he gave a splendid talk. You will hear a good talk tonight. These talks are designed to assist you in knowing the Townsend endorsed candidates and their qualifications.

The Tustin club No. 1 is staging its Halloween party this evening. Mrs. A. P. Hibbet writes, promising a good time plus entertainment and eats. The invitation is for Townsendites of other clubs to help celebrate. The frolicsome affair will be held in the Townsend club building at West Main and C streets. You will find real fellowship with the Tustin club.

Mrs. E. G. Best, secretary of Santa Ana club No. 11 announces a meeting of her club at 7:30 tomorrow evening in the Franklin school at 1512 West Fourth street. It will be a business session and the membership is requested to be present.

Santa Ana club No. 10 is meeting at 7:30 tomorrow evening in Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street for a business meeting with Mrs. Edith L. Paul, president, in charge. The membership is urged to be present.

Mrs. Gertrude Grout of Orange and Grant Henderson of Santa Ana are a committee of two who are taking the initiative in giving a touch of the Halloween season to Townsend hall for next Saturday night's mass meeting through the medium of decorations. So do not be surprised if when you arrive at the hall for the meeting you find something to remind you of the words of the poet:

"When the frost is on the pumpkin
And the fodder's in the shock."

Really we are going to have a fine time Saturday night. Just a lot of home folks all bent on being sociable and jolly and a shining up our minds at bit about what the Townsendites of other parts of the wide stretching United States are doing. We'll be getting acquainted through the talks of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Maps with the New Yorker type of Townsendites and their ways of doing things.

From Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Best we will hear illuminating information from way off down in "Old Kentucky" and back in "Old Virginia" spiced up with tales of the Kansas dust bowl and its Townsend state convention.

Saturday night the program talent will be supplied by home folks and by home folks I mean Orange county Townsendites, for this is an Orange county mass meeting. It's not a Santa Ana or any other town affair but in Orange county we are all home folks. So the Costa Mesa Hill Billies directed by Mrs. Lena Burdick have been prevailed upon to furnish the concert music. Add to this will be community singing led by Walter B. Raugh accompanied by Mrs. T. F. Cruzen. Bring your song books, don't forget. Then Raugh has promised to drum up some good vocal talent who will sing some good old numbers in the good old way that will stir your memories of other days.

Tell your neighbors, tell your friends, that the most outdoing bunch of friendly people that ever was, is to be found on Saturday nights in Santa Ana Townsend hall when the mass meetings are being held. If they'll just come once and get into the spirit of the same brand of friendliness as is common property among the Townsendites that they'll want to join the gang and help sell the Townsend plan to the world.

I'll wager nothing to a good old fashioned Halloween doughnut that there isn't a real go-getting live-wire Townsendite in the county who won't agree that the Townsend movement has put a new light in the eyes of the old people and a new hope in the breasts of

JESSE ELLIOTT VIGOROUSLY DENIES CHARGE

Charges made by Sheriff Logan Jackson in campaign radio speeches were denied flatly last night by Constable Jesse Elliott, Jackson's opponent.

Jackson had alleged, and Elliott vigorously denied, that:

1. Elliott intends to appoint Floyd Howard, Santa Ana chief of police, to a position if he is elected sheriff.

2. Elliott is supported by "gamblers, radicals and racketeers."

3. Elliott promised to "turn his back" in labor disputes.

The constable declared Jackson's statements were false and "with-out reason," and "made to evade the real issue in this campaign."

"There will be no person or group of persons," said the candidate, "dictating or controlling the sheriff's office. . . I have stated many times, and again state, when I am elected sheriff of Orange county, I will enforce all the laws fearlessly, honestly and sincerely. . ."

Jackson had charged that Elliott told a "radical group in Santa Ana" he would "turn his back when they are beating and killing American citizens."

Elliott branded that statement as false, saying "no such statement was made by me." He also remarked that the meeting was an open forum to which all candidates for sheriff except Jackson attended.

"You citizens of Orange county can rest assured that I am not asking support, and do not want support, from any radical group or any group that has for its purpose the destruction of life, liberty or property," said Elliott.

"Let me again state that I stand upon my record as a law enforcement officer in this county for the past 19 years, and my record should be sufficient answer to all such propaganda. . ."

"You have been told that the gamblers will take over the county. . . I have taken a stand on gambling and any and all other forms of law violation. . . I will enforce all the laws, and law enforcement as I have planned it and as I will take oath to administer it includes wiping out gambling. . . I will. . . enforce all the laws all of the time, and not part of the laws part of the time."

Elliott renewed his promise to establish a juvenile department in the sheriff's office to handle young offenders.

"Now, to you farmers and ranchers of Orange county," he concluded, "you have been told that I am connected with labor leaders and have had an understanding with labor leaders. . . Let me definitely state that I have no understanding with any labor leaders, group or organization. . . I want it distinctly understood that when I am sheriff of Orange county, I will not tolerate any violence, destruction of life or property, or violation of any kind or nature by radicals, strikers or sympathizers or any other group. . ."

the young people. But such blessing don't warm the hearts of the people who sit at home in the hours of their twilight. Inaction hastens the mildest of age. Be active and stay young.

TEA WILL OPEN S. A. COLLEGE'S HOMECOMING

Homecoming activities for alumni of Santa Ana Junior college get under way tomorrow afternoon when the women's service clubs sponsor a tea for all returning women students.

President Otto Grigg of the Alumni association which is sponsoring the Homecoming celebration today revealed complete plans for the celebration.

The tea will be held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, Fifth and Main streets. The Spinsters, women's service group of the college, is in general charge and are being assisted by the Moavs, Las Meninas, Piloteers, and Las Gitanas.

Climax of Homecoming will be tomorrow night's football game in the Municipal bowl between Santa Ana and San Bernardino. A special section has been reserved for all returning alumni, according to President Grigg.

Following the game, an informal dance is scheduled for the EbeE clubhouse, 625 French street. All junior college spinsters and alumni are invited to attend.

Saturday evening the annual Soph-Fresh dance will be held in the Huntington Beach Memorial hall. All alumni have been urged to attend the dance.

Assisting Grigg in his preparations for the Homecoming have been Clyde Fife, vice president, and presidents of the nine service clubs. They are Peggy Paxton, Merle Swingle, Juanita Stanfield, Gertrude Young, Margie Lee Brown, Frank Was, George Aupierle, Walter Swanberger, and Joe Thompson.

DONS REJECT SAN BERNARDINO GRID PLAN

Saint Sophomores Outpoint Chaffey Gridders, 7-6

LOCALS DRIVE 52 YARDS IN FINAL PERIOD

Sophomore gridders of Santa Ana High school today were sporting a 7 to 6 victory, scored over Chaffey's Tigers in a Citrus Belt league game at Clayton field here yesterday afternoon. The victory partially offset a 6-0 loss Coach Reese Greene's "Little Saints" suffered at the hands of Riverside here last week.

Nip-and-tuck playing resulted in a scoreless first half.

Chaffey scored first in the third quarter after taking advantage of the "breaks." Santa Ana came back in the fourth period to score on a play which completely baffled the invaders.

FUMBLE RECOVERED

A fumble on the Santa Ana 22-yard line was recovered by Chaffey early in the third period. A first down followed. Santa Ana's left halfback, Bill Guiley, partially blocked a pass which a Chaffey player snagged while the ball was still in the air and raced down to Santa Ana's 10-yard mark.

Halfback Ray Davis of the Tigers then carried the ball to the Santa Ana one—just short of a first down. Fullback Arnold Jurn plunged through center for the touchdown. The "Little Saints" held in the end zone. Chaffey failed to gain the extra point.

Early in the final period, Santa Ana started a sustained drive from the Saints' 48 after an exchange of punts. Guiley made 8, followed by a 2-yard gain by Quarterback Richard Roehm, netting a first down. Guiley then dashed 9 yards, followed by Guiley, who made another first down.

With first down on the Chaffey 28, Guiley on a reverse play dashed around his own right end to the two-yard line. Lee then went through the center of the line for the lone Santa Ana touchdown. He also made the extra point through the line.

STARTING LINEUP

Coach Reese (Pinky) Greene's starting lineup was composed of Wallace Amling and Faris Rousos, ends; Don Leibermann and Vergil Crenshaw, tackles; Eugene Murphy and Kenneth Claborn, guards; and Clarence Harvey, center. The backfield consisted of Richard Roehm, quarter; Bill Guiley and Joe Lewis, halfbacks; Alan Haddell, fullback. Substitutions for Santa Ana included Deacon, Patterson, Lara, Hutter, Lee, Shoemaker, Plavan, and McCann.

Santa Ana travels to Redlands next Thursday, Nov. 3, for a third Citrus Belt league game.

EX-SAINT JOINS BULLDOG PROS

Harold (Hal) Pangle, one-time Santa Ana High school star and late of the Chicago Cardinals in professional football, has joined the Los Angeles Bulldogs, and will appear in their backfield against the Cincinnati Bengals at Gilmore stadium in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon.

Baer Knocks Out Hank Hankinson

HONOLULU. (AP)—Max Baer, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, knocked out Hank Hankinson in the first round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last.

Baer made short work of Hankinson who managed to land one punch before he fell before a stiff right to the jaw. The fight lasted 48 seconds. Baer weighed 221; Hankinson, 214.

The bout was the main event of an Elks charity card. It was witnessed by 2000.

LOTT, RABURN TANGLE IN MAIN EVENT

With the exception of the main event featuring Jimmie Lott and Billy Raburn in a three-fall finish match, wrestling matches scheduled for tonight at the Orange County Athletic club will be, for the most part, contests between the "favorites" and the "goons." The show opens at 8:30 o'clock.

In the main event Raburn, the "Georgia peach" of the mat game and prime favorite among Orange County fans, meets Lott, who is another favorite among the fans. This should be one of the fastest and cleanest matches that has been staged in the local club in many weeks.

In the semi-windup, "Tarzan" Paul Orth, who plays too rough for many of the boys, will clash with Pat (Popeye) O'Brien, in a three-fall, 45-minute time-limit match.

Yukon Jake, one of nature's noblemen, tangles with Charlie Carr of Louisiana in the second three-fall, 45-minute match.

Juan Gonzales, newcomer from Mexico City, will make his California debut in the 30-minute preliminary against Leo Kerlinko, another recent arrival from Russia.

FERNIE BACA WILL FIGHT SAILOR MARTIN

Meeting his toughest opposition in several months, Fernie Baca, Santa Ana, is all set to "go to town" next Monday night when he fights "Sailor" Martin of the U. S. S. Houston in the top half of the double main event.

In the second half of the double main go Sammy Walker, sensational Ebony club 144-pounder, will fight "Sailor" Alejo, also from the Battleship Houston.

Excelsior at Huntington Beach.
Newport Harbor at Anaheim.

Winners of the first round will battle opening-game losers when football rivalry is resumed in the Sunset Prep league tomorrow afternoon.

Excelsior's preps, who scored two touchdowns in the first half to defeat Anaheim, 13-0 last week will invade Huntington Beach for a clash with Coach Al Rebohn's Oilers, who lost by a 13-0 count to Long Beach Jordan in their opener.

Newport Harbor's Tars, who got off to an auspicious start by trimming Orange's Panthers, 7-6, last week, probably will encounter stiffer competition at Anaheim.

Long Beach Jordan and Orange will tangle in the other game tomorrow afternoon.

Honors Shared in Willowick Golf

Mrs. Clara Hooven and Mrs. Pearl Adams, with a net score of 35, shared honors in best-nine-hole play at the Willowick golf course yesterday.

Today a year ago—T. Westhead's Punch, 17-1 shot, won 99th running of the Cesarewich handicap over 2½-mile course.

Coach Spaulding Will Miss U. C. L. A.-Stanford Game; Oliver Says Oregon Ready

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The University at Los Angeles football team will be without the guiding advice of its head coach when it meets Stanford university Saturday in Memorial coliseum.

Bill Spaulding, mentor of the Bruins, left by plane last night for Melrose, Wis. to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Phineas Spaulding, who died yesterday at the age of 75 years.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Two of the top-rated centers of the Pacific Coast conference clash here Saturday when Stanford's grid eleven brings its Tony Calveilli down for a tussle with the Bruins of U. C. L. A. and their Johnny Ryland.

Ryland, who is listed at 190 pounds but who looks to weigh 100 pounds less, has been a stand-out in every game the Bruins have played this year. A tireless, 60-minute player, he has the vote of many football writers here for all-conference honors.

Stanford's Calveilli, who is listed at 188 pounds, drew warm praise from the Bruin scouts who watched his work against Southern California last week and a comparison with Ryland may prove of better than passing in.

SPORTS Roundup

By SID FEDER

(Pinch-Hitting for Brietz)

NEW YORK. (AP)—Note to Tony Lazzari, San Francisco: Is it the grocery use for finding out when a grocery player should come out of a ball game? ... They ask him, so the story goes, "Who's your coach?" ... If he answers, "Bernie Bierman," he stays in ... if he says "Ben Bernie," they yank him pronto. ... Are ya lis'nin', Mr. Winchell? ... Col. Eddie Brietz has taken an indefinite leave of absence from this corner. ... So we hope all you boys and girls will be as kind to this department as to the Colonel.

Cornell's Carl Snively is so perturbed about those reports he'll be coaching on the Pacific coast next year that he's issuing an official denial. ... But his contract at Ithaca is up next March; U. C. L. A. is rumored looking for a new boss—So-o-o-o. ... Eddie Mead sounds serious about kicking over the traces with Mike Jacobs' promotion so that he can give Henry Armstrong more action. ... He wants the little colored man with the big fists to go to the post about once a month so he can keep in tip-top shape.

Sh-h-h—the secret's out. ... The reason Louisiana State let Tulane grab ball-carrying Bob Kellogg was (1) "cause he's married and the Tigers turn thumbs down on benedicts ... and (2) he played a year junior college ball, so L. S. U. heads decided 'twouldn't be worth while developing a player just for two years' work. ... Reports from the mid-west this week say Carnegie and Notre Dame played one of the hardest games of the year—and one trace with Mike Jacobs' promotion so that he can give Henry Armstrong more action. ... He wants the little colored man with the big fists to go to the post about once a month so he can keep in tip-top shape.

Handicapped

Physically handicapped children in Orange county today are being rescued from a life of ignorance and unhappiness which would be theirs without the benefits of an elementary school education.

Because of their physical handicaps—paralysis, tuberculosis, accident injuries, diseases, even blindness and deafness—they cannot attend the public schools. But these handicapped children are being given an elementary school education through an emergency program carried out by the county department of schools in cooperation with the state of California.

These children, confined to their homes or to a hospital bed, cannot be brought to school, so school is brought to them. A staff of eight teachers from the county schools department is carrying out an extensive program of home and bedside instruction.

The teachers are to these handicapped children what a tutor is to a rich man's son. They call at the home twice each week for an hour's lesson in regular courses—each teacher handles from 10 to 14 home instruction cases.

One teacher handles the instruction of physically handicapped children at the county hospital. She has about 25 at the present time, teaches children throughout the entire day as their health will permit. Some of the hospital cases are there the year around, most only temporarily.

This program has been carried out in the county for the past 10 years. In 1936-37, a representative period, there were 150 children enrolled in home instruction during the year, and 50 in the hospital bedside instruction.

There have been a few handicapped children in the county who have completed their elementary school education without ever stepping into a public school, completing their education at the hospital and home instruction plan.

Some study in their hospital beds, then resume their work at the public school when they have recovered. This emergency teaching enables them to go back to school after a long period of absence and resume studies without being retarded.

Then there are a few at the county hospital who may never recover, who may have but a short while to live. The teacher strives to make their lives as interesting and happy as possible.

Average age of disabled children now enrolled is 11. Average length of enrollment is 75 to 80 days; with instruction being given two days a week, that figures close to a year.

Of the handicaps, 27 per cent are attributed to tuberculosis, followed by spinal paralysis, brain disease, and others. Handicaps seem to be equally divided among boys and girls.

Paralysis keeps children in the hospital or confined to their homes for the longest period of time of any ailment, followed next in line by tuberculosis.

Besides giving the regular academic work, teachers place much stress upon speech training, as many of the children have speech defects. Vocational and avocational courses are provided, such as handicraft, weaving, carving.

Another aim is to discover talents or abilities in the child that he could develop to make himself self-supporting in the future.

Average cost of caring for these pupils is approximately $80 per year per child. The expense is met by the state under this provision of the state school code: the county superintendent of schools is empowered to set up emergency schools wherever there is a group of children whose needs cannot be met in any other way.

The state funds come from the unappropriated county elementary funds.

This work includes all of Orange county except the Santa Ana school district, which makes its own provision for handicapped children. A district may provide for the education of physically handicapped children through special classes and special instruction, and the state must foot the bill.

Since there are not enough cases for the other districts of the county to set up special classes, the county schools department includes all but Santa Ana in one program.

Recommendations that certain children be enrolled in home instruction is made by Dr. Mabel Geddes, county school physician, after she talks with the private physician. After her recommendation is made, B. E. Bewick, assistant county superintendent of schools, assigns a teacher and supervises the work.

The teacher continues the home teaching until the child is declared well enough to go back to school. There is a percentage, of course, who do not go back.

The home teaching varies with the individual child, all being controlled by his physical condition.

Anaheim Opens Annual Hallowe'en Horse Show 1 P.M. Friday

SOME OF BEST COAST ANIMALS TO BE SHOWN

ANAHEIM.—This city as prepared today for the 15th annual Anaheim Hallowe'en Festival and Horse Show which will be held here tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Anaheim Merchants' and Manufacturers' association and the chamber of commerce.

The festival will get under way at 1 p. m. with a horse show which will be free to the public. Arrangements have been made to seat several thousand people. The show is expected to attract some of the finest horses on the Pacific coast.

R. F. MacBeth, chairman of the horse show, said there will be a variety of events, including harness horses, high stepping ponies, hackneys, three and five gaited horses, hunters and jumpers and men's stock horse class.

Following the horse show in the afternoon, will be the annual Hallowe'en parade through downtown streets beginning at 7 p. m.

More than 100 floats are being prepared for the parade, which will assemble in Atchison, Topeka, Melrose and Olive streets. Floats will start westward along Center street, turned south on Citrus street to Broadway, and continue east to the railway tracks, where it will disband.

E. B. Sharpley of Santa Ana, Martell Thompson of Orange and Harry May of Fullerton have been selected as judges of the floats and decorated cars.

William Wallop, superintendent of the Anaheim Union Power company and noted horseman, will serve as grand marshal of the parade.

Also at the head of the parade will be Sheriff Logan Jackson and John Wagner, old-time Placentia horsemen. Some 400 horsemen are expected to participate.

The San Bernardino sheriff's posse of 35 mounted men will arrive in Anaheim today, encamping overnight. Officials said some 14 riding clubs from various parts of the state will participate.

The parade will be about two miles long. First unit will be the University of Southern California band. The Los Angeles police band will also be entered.

The city of Santa Ana will enter a float, and the N. Y. A. band will also be there.

SHOWER GIVEN ORANGE BRIDE

COSTA MESA.—Mrs. Clyde Otto, Mrs. Harold Elmer and Mrs. Marshall McGuire were co-hostesses at a recent linen shower given for Mrs. William Wright (Grace Shilling) of Orange, who was married Oct. 9, in Riverside.

Old-fashioned bride costumes were worn by the hostesses and honoree, a mock wedding ceremony being performed. The afternoon was passed in other typical bridal games and contests.

MURDER CRY MERELY A HORN

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Police were called at 3 a. m. yesterday by sleepy citizens who heard a mournful noise from the interior of Terry's garage on Walnut street.

The noise was halfway between a sigh and a groan, and grew weaker, like the death rattle in a murdered man's throat.

Police boldly opened the garage doors and localized the noise in the cars parked inside for repairs. It was only a horn, short-circuited and honking feebly of its own accord.

New Bridge Group Gathers In C. M.

COSTA MESA.—Mrs. George Healey, Mrs. Glenn Cheeseman and Mrs. Merwin J. Pickett were hostesses at a meeting of the newly organized bridge section Wednesday in the Women's clubhouse. Four Youths Charged With Series of Yacht Burglaries; Handwriting Clue in Case

Four Newport Beach youths were jailed last night by sheriff's officers, following several days' intensive investigation of burglaries of yachts in the bay.

Deputy Sheriffs James Musick and John Gilmore arrested the youths in Newport Beach. Booked at the county jail, the prisoners gave their names as Earl Schneeweiz, 20, laborer; Martin Blum, 22, fisherman; Charles Slick, 21, dishwasher, and Farnk Kirkpatrick, 20, laborer, all of Newport.

Schneeweiz, Blum and Kirkpatrick admitted looking four yachts at the Bay Shore Yacht basin during the past few weeks, Musick said, and implicated Slick. Articles stolen from the boats, mostly compasses and other equipment, were pawned in Long Beach under fictitious names. Herman Zabel, chief of the sheriff's office record bureau, reported that handwriting of the pawn tickets closely resembled handwriting of the suspects.

R. Ainsworth, manager of the yacht basin, had told officers he suspected four youths who had the use of a boat belonging to an Anaheim man which was moored near the boats which were boarded.

First clue to the suspects came when owners of the burglarized boats compared notes and found burned matches scattered around the cockpits. Reasoning that the burglars probably had no flashlight, deputies found that later a flashlight had been taken from a boat owned by R. E. Moore of Santa Ana. The flashlight, they said, was found in an apartment occupied by Schneeweiz and Slick.

P.-T. A. PLANS YULE CHOIR IN C. M. SCHOOL

COSTA MESA.—An executive board meeting of the elementary Parent-Teacher association was held Tuesday at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry Abrams.

Mrs. Arthur Worden, Mrs. Goss Grable and Mrs. H. L. Shilling were appointed as a committee to investigate costs and needs for costumes for a Christmas choir of upper grade pupils. Mrs. Fred Ward Pilley reported on welfare work for October and upon the committee investigation of the continued use of the playground equipment by WPA instructors. It was decided to postpone action upon this measure, pending one month's trial operation of the Saturday playground.

Mrs. Clyde Otto and Mrs. George Grupe were appointed to meet with Mrs. Abrams to discuss provision of milk for insufficiently nourished pupils and to also discuss sale of candy on the school grounds. A full resume of the ways and means projects for the early part of the P.-T. A. year, was presented by Mrs. Clyde Ott, ways and means chairman.

Plans were made for the doll festival to be held Dec. 2 on the main school grounds. Prizes will be awarded to the owner of the oldest, largest and smallest dolls on display. Cafeteria supper will be served during the evening.

Jail Looms Ahead for Hallowe'en Vandals, County Officials Warn

SHERIFF WILL ADD DEPUTIES;
VETERANS AID

A little well-placed noise Monday night won't land you in jail—but beware of window-breaking and garbage can-swiping, police and sheriff's officers warned today.

All county law enforcement agencies today were preparing for the peak time of year—Hallowe'en, which is Monday night. Special officers and most men on regular forces will be on hand to prevent acts of vandalism and destruction of property.

ADDITIONAL POLICE

County supervisors for the first time have provided for additional police protection in the unincorporated areas, where special deputy sheriffs will augment regular patrol cars in keeping hoodlums under control or in custody.

The special deputies were provided for following request of Costa Mesa citizens, whom hit in the county last Hallowe'en.

ARRESTS PROMISED

Besides patrol cars and special deputies, American Legion members will assist in patrolling Costa Mesa, where much property was damaged last year.

"We don't mind people having a good time," said Sheriff Logan Jackson, "but we won't stand for any vandalism or destruction of property—and our officers will make arrests."

DAIRY UNIT OF
FARM BUREAU
MEETS NOV. 7

Arthur Campbell, assistant farm advisor, San Bernardino county, will be the principal speaker at annual dairy day scheduled to be held at the Orange County Farm Bureau hall Nov. 7.

Campbell will discuss pastures as an adjunct to the dairy. Irrigated pastures have been used extensively in San Bernardino county and satisfactory grass mixtures determined.

Whether the returns in the way of feed from pastures here will equal or exceed the returns from cultivated crops is a question that dairymen are asking.

Awards in cow competition classes will be made on dairy day, and legislative matters affecting the industry will be discussed.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Calumet auxiliary sewing circle announced the postponement of its bazaar and cooked food sale, which was to have been this Saturday.

REP. SHEPPARD
ASKS PROBE
OF CAMPAIGN

Investigation of Republican charges of coercion by WPA heads and heavy levies on postmasters for Congressman Harry Sheppard's campaign fund was in the hands of a special house committee today, as Sheppard declared in a statement he would "welcome" an immediate investigation.

M. B. Wellington, chairman of a Republican committee of nine which asked that Sheppard's campaign expenditures be investigated, renewed his appeal for a probe after Sen. Morris Sheppard, head of a senate committee, directed that the request be made to the house committee instead.

"Congressman Sheppard, I understand," said Wellington, "has denied publicly any wrongdoing. I believe it will take more, however, than the denial of a man seeking office to clear away the rumors now in the air. We want these matters investigated, and will press for immediate action."

Sheppard, in a telegram to the senate committee, said "the request is so biased, in fact, that I welcome an immediate investigation in order to stop this malicious and false attack."

The Republicans had charged that postmasters in this district were being assessed heavily for Sheppard's campaign fund, and that a WPA worker and executive from San Bernardino have been coercing relief clients to compel them to support Sheppard.

MOOSE OF 19
LODGES HOLD
SESSION HERE

Two hundred delegates from 19 Moose lodges gathered in Santa Ana last night for a South Central district meeting in the Santa Ana Moose hall, 306½ East Fourth street.

Ernest Dunn, dictators of the Santa Ana lodge, directed the meeting over to Louis Swally, vice president of the district.

Huntington Park's champion degree team initiated four into the Santa Ana lodge. New members are Kenneth Henry, Thomas Moore, Arthur Pryor and Clifford Howard.

T. E. Tyler was appointed membership director of the Santa Ana lodge by Jake Isenhour of Los Angeles, district membership director. He will assume his new duties Nov. 1.

There will be a dance next Wednesday night to honor those who will be charter members of the Women's auxiliary of the Moose lodge. Elton Pace reported there would be a dance and social meeting in the hall at least once a month.

Lodges represented last night were Alhambra, Burbank, Covina, Compton, Culver City, Los Angeles (two), Pomona, Santa Ana, Torrance, San Bernardino, Glendale, Huntington Park, Long Beach, Baywood, Pasadena, San Pedro, Bay City and Whittier.

Each Wednesday next month, speaker at the forum meetings will be John C. Duval of Rochester university, who will lead a series of discussions on European problems.

His first talk next week will be on the subject of causes of European unrest. Duval, who has made a number of trips to Europe, had been the speaker the past month on the federal forum program at Ogden, Utah.

Boy Bicyclist Hit By Auto, Injured

Gerald Scholl, 15-year-old Santa Ana youth, was treated for minor injuries at the Orange county hospital yesterday after his bicycle was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by Edwin Hill, of Santa Ana.

Police said the accident occurred at First and Bristol streets. The youth suffered a wound on the scalp and a cut on the right knee.

Veterans' Sons, Daughters to Meet

Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will hold a Hallowe'en party in the M. W. A. hall tomorrow night.

There will be a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 o'clock in charge of Roy E. Kelchner.

Berren Baker of the entertainment committee urges all members to come dressed in Hallowe'en costumes.

College Freshmen Tried and Convicted Before They Have
Chance to Enter Their Pleas

Santa Ana Junior college freshmen have been duly initiated.

With all students of the college entering into the spirit of the occasion, offending freshmen were "given the words" by their superiors yesterday in Willard auditorium at the annual kangaroo court. Even new faculty members were not exempt.

Assistant Football Coach John Ward was the first defendant to be tried—and he was found guilty before he could enter a plea. Ward was accused of espionage by playing with the football team. Marian Adams was accused at the same time of polishing the apple.

Sentence passed on Defendant Ward was for Miss Adams to "wash the glorious muck of the football field forever from Ward's feet."

Vivian Stanley and Margaret Aubrey were charged with leaving their cosmetics promiscuously about the campus, while Romola Narducci and Wally Grigg were charged with having a great affinity for cosmetics. Judgment, of course, was guilty.

Judge Bill Twist required the young men to remove the girls' cosmetics with cold cream and let them remain for a time. The girls then "painted up" the boys with their cosmetics.

Because Norma Battle, Betty Hobs and Oakie Dougherty were found guilty of eating at a restaurant instead of attending classes. Prosecuting Attorney Bruce Buell insisted that the accused eat the "dainty" dish of oysters.

The "yolk" was on Bettie Timmons for insubordination and disregard for her superiors, in the next case brought before the mock court. For her sentence, Miss Timmons was required to walk on eggs in her bare feet—blindfolded.

Charged with "butting in," Evelyn Miracle, Ellen English and Betty Stowe were required to milk a goat.

Dr. Kyle Lyon, philosophy instructor, was found guilty of trying to psychoanalyze and confuse his students. Sentence passed on him required that he "give a clear picture of philosophy by reading the great Emmanuel Pussysbuss's treatise on the same subject."

For being a "blowhard," Carl

Homan was required to blow up several balloons and give a bubble dance. A "no beanie" charge was made against Dorothy Dreblow. She then had to write the sentence, "I am a bad girl," on the blackboard 200 times.

Orville Knutsen, economics instructor, was found guilty of teaching too much theory in his classes. For his sentence, he had to speak on "Why Is a Rat, and Its Place in Economics."

Many other students were tried before the "justice" court and were required to carry out their punishment before the more than 700 students who jammed the auditorium.

The "firing squad," armed with paddles, consisted of Lynn Arnett, Bill Semmacher, Ted DeVelbiss, Maurice Kerley, "Cab" Calloway. Frank was acted as clerk of the court.

Freighter Crashes San Pedro Wharf

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—A wharf and shed in Los Angeles harbor were badly damaged today when the Matson line freighter, Maunewill, crashed into them today while shifting berth.

The freighter, out of control, plowed through the deck tearing a hole 60 feet wide and 40 feet deep through piling and planking. Preliminary examination indicated the Maunewill was not materially damaged by the collision.

Honorary Cops in L. A. Total 7843

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Issuance of 7843 honorary police badges, Chief of Police James E. Davis declared in a report on file with Mayor Fletcher Bowron today, was in pursuance of the department's policy of creating an auxiliary force subject to call in time of emergency.

The mayor has indicated he contemplates issuance of a newly designed police badge and revocation of all outstanding ones.

Membership Meeting
Scheduled WednesdayFact-Finding Body
Meets With Wide
Interest In State

Thomas L. McFadden of Anaheim today had been elected president of the California Citrus Growers league, newly-incorporated "fact finding" organization of citrus growers.

Election of officers came yesterday at an organization meeting of directors in the office of Colonel M. B. Wellington of Santa Ana.

DIRECTORS NAMED
Richard Haster of Garden Grove was elected vice president, and Colonel Wellington was elected to serve as secretary-treasurer.

Other directors are Clarence Brown, San Juan Capistrano; F. H. Gerdes, Orange; Howard Budlong, Anaheim; George Randall, Orange; Weston M. Smith, Fullerton; and Sidney O. Pallew.

His election to the presidency of the Citrus league came as a complete surprise to McFadden, who received first word of the director's action from The Journal today. He said he was absent from yesterday's meeting.

MEETING CALLED
By-laws were drawn up, and a public meeting of growers called for next Wednesday night. The meeting, at which membership in the citrus league may be taken out, is expected to be held in Anaheim, although definite announcement will be made through the newspapers later.

Membership will be open to all growers. Every member will have the same standing in the league. There will be a $5 fee for joining.

Periodic reports will be submitted to the members of facts compiled in study of various citrus problems.

"REVOLT," NOT AIM
Job of fact-finding will be divided up into various groups, it was explained. There will be a group to study the California Fruit Growers exchange, another the Mutual Orange Distributors, another independents, and so on.

In the study of citrus problems, the league will try to maintain a sympathetic attitude toward the various associations and groups, not seeking to "revolutionize" anything but to make recommendations for improvements, officers said.

WIDE INTEREST
Colonel Wellington said interest in the new organization is widespread, with letters being received from growers all over California. It is expected that the membership of the league will be composed of growers from all parts of the state.

General purposes of the citrus league are to study problems in growing, picking, shipping and marketing of citrus fruit; provide means of direct contact with and support to marketing organizations; make recommendations for the betterment of the citrus industry; to investigate and assist in correcting abuses.

The league is a non-profit organization.

Conclave Here Draws 250 Women

Santa Ana Presbyterian aid members were hostesses yesterday to the annual convocation of the Federated Aids of the Los Angeles Presbytery, with approximately 250 women in attendance at the all-day session.

Called to order in the morning by Mrs. R. Morgan Galbreath, first vice president, the group participated in devotionals led by the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, and heard a speech of welcome delivered by Mrs. Arthur Wells, president of the local aid.

Following an open forum discussion, a delightful musical program was presented, with Holly Lash Visel singing the ever beautiful "Living God" (O'Hara), and "The Prayer Perfect" (Stenson), and Ruth Armstrong accompanying her. Miss Armstrong who arranged the music of the entire day, officiated at both organ and piano.

Following the luncheon hour, planned by the local group, Miss Armstrong presented a 10-minute organ recital, after which Grace Hanson Buell, violinist, rendered Tchaikowski's "Andante" and Wieniawski's "Romance," to Miss Armstrong's accompaniment. Julia Constance Layman completed the enjoyable interlude with a charming reading, "Brushwood" to a muted piano obligato.

The afternoon session was presided over by Mrs. Albert Dieke, the president, who was delayed in the morning. Miss Rose Scott, secretary of the board of Christian education, gave an interesting talk on vacation schools, after which Frank Butterworth, director of education at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church at Pomona, gave a most inspiring address on "Christian Education of the 20th Century."

Upon adjournment, the group was conducted through the new church by the Rev. Mr. McFarland.

INTIMATE FRIENDS GATHER FOR PARTY

Earlier in the week, Miss Constance and Miss Marion Cruickshank entertained in their beautiful Tustin home in honor of their mother whose birthday anniversary occasioned the affair.

The Misses Cruickshank arranged the party as a surprise and not until the guest arrived was the honoree aware of it. Bridge was in order for the evening with Mrs. Charles Kendall winning high award. Mrs. Cruickshank was then given a lovely array of gifts and refreshments were served by the sister hostesses at the end of the evening.

Present, with the honor couple and their daughters, were Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Thuhill, and Miss Janet Cruickshank.

PENNEY FOLK ENJOY GAY COSTUME PARTY

Seventy-five employees of the J. C. Penney store, with their families, enjoyed a masquerade party at the Thomas-Deardoff barn one night this week, with prizes for the best costumes going to Mrs. Alta Hoff and Tommy Cole.

Fruits, autumn leaves, and corn stalks added to the charm of the setting, where games and dancing were enjoyed, and a late Halloween refreshment course was served.

EDUCATIONAL ORGANIZATION CONVENES

Rho chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, nationally known educational fraternity, enjoyed a dinner meeting this week at Knott's Berry farm, and absorbed from Beta chapter at Whittier the following new members: Mrs. Marjorie Dudley and Miss Hubert Kueneman of Santa Ana, Pauline Merchant and Ethel Evans of Garden Grove, Alta Provod of La Habra, and Olive Potter of Anaheim.

With the state convention scheduled to be an event of the near future at Los Angeles, the chapter devoted some time to discussing phases of its work. Dr. Maymie Southall of Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., national president, will be an honored guest at that time. Rho chapter will assist with registration. Dates of the convocation are Nov. 26 and 27.

The dinner table was attractively decorated with autumn flowers and was arranged by the hostess, Miss Verna Rigdon of Anaheim.

Mrs. Pauline Merchant of Garden Grove was featured speaker introduced by Mrs. Florence McCoy, program chairman. "Discrimination Against Married Women" was the title of her interesting address.

Presentation of a pair of brass candlesticks to the chapter was made by Miss Velda Barnes, acting for Miss Olive Potter, who is seriously ill at the home of her brother, in San Fernando. Miss Potter selected the gift while in Italy this summer as a member of Thomas Glenn's party.

Present for the meeting, which will be followed by an initiation session Nov. 22 at Fullerton were Mary Priscilla Allen, Fanny Bragg, Margaret Bolte, Vanche Plumb, E. Pearl Nicholson, Nora Edith W. Thayer, Jennie Lasby Tessimann, and Mabel Waring of Santa Ana; Velda M. Barnes, Ethel Evans, and Pauline Merchant of Garden Grove; Ethel Coverly, Clara Mork, Verna Rigdon, Bernice Schacht and Marguerite Utter of Anaheim; Emma J. Kast and Myrtle V. Stueke of Fullerton; Ethel Garman and Alta Provod of La Habra; Geneva Hedding, Lea Hood and Agnes Smith of Huntington Beach; Clara Spelman of Newport Beach, Florence McCoy of Orange, and Mary Lemke of Brea.

MASQUERADE DRAWS MORE THAN 100

Approximately 100 masqueraded guests attended a Halloween party at the Deardoff-Thomas barn Monday evening, with the Phillips Crusaders' Parents' association as hosts.

Halloween decorations, attractive booths serving pumpkin pies, ice cream, hot dogs, and pop, added to the pleasure of the event, as did the costumes worn by everyone.

P.T.A. NEWS

LINCOLN

Members of the Lincoln P.T.A., with Mrs. John C. James as president, sponsored a very successful carnival at the school Friday evening, starting with a plate supper.

Booths, attractively decorated in Halloween colors, were set up in the halls for the sale of ice cream, candy, popcorn, cake, pie, and hot dogs.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was a program presented after Mrs. Ralph Barker had arranged it. First was a quartet composed of Alvin Rohrs, Clarence Rohrs, Howard Yould, and Harold Rhoades, accompanied by Pauline Rhoades.

This was followed by a Meglin group, with Miss Helen Taylor as mistress of ceremonies and also tap-dancer. Little Virginia May Hines sang, danced and played two accordion numbers, and Betty Jean Vardy sang two numbers, accompanied by her sister, Genevieve Vardy.

Julia Ann Hyde showed colored movies of her trip to Mexico, and two comic movies, donated by Ernest Backman, were shown, after which Eldon Klingenberg and Marlin Shelby played several selections on their electric guitars.

SPURGEON

Considered one of the most successful events of the year was the annual carnival held by the P.T.A. of the Spurgeon school Friday evening at the school building.

Starting the affair was a plate dinner served at 5:30 p. m., with dancing and musical entertainment by the children of the school following. Fortune telling tents decorated in festive Halloween colors were filled with attractions for visitors.

TUSTIN

Approximately $125 was made by Tustin Grammar School P.T.A. at their carnival Saturday night.

Starting with a cafeteria dinner, the evening progressed with music, singing, and dancing. A crazy horse, fortune teller, and fishpond added to the merriment. Orlo Householder served as master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Lila Northrup was general chairman of the event.

S. A. COUNCIL

Meeting Tuesday, Nov. 1 at 9:30 a. m. in the Spurgeon school, members of the Santa Ana Council will have a business session. All welfare chairmen are urged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Floyd Mitchell announced parliamentary procedure classes, beginning Friday morning at 9 a. m. in the McKinley school. Every school should have a representative present.

HOOVER

Next scheduled meeting of the Hoover school P.T.A. is to be November 1 at 2:30 p. m. in the school. An executive board meeting will precede the regular hour at 2 p. m. All members are urged to be present as an interesting program featuring members of the school has been arranged. The theme was announced as "Health."

WILLARD

A symposium discussion on the subject of "The Character Development of the Child" was conducted Tuesday afternoon at the October meeting of the Willard Parent-Teacher association, which was held at the school library.

Mrs. W. O. Mendenhall, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

Influence of the home, school, church and community on this development was discussed in interesting talks given by Mrs. E. D. Froeschle, Mrs. Arnold Lund, the Rev. Albert Kelly, Miss Wolfe and Herbert Thomas.

A trio from the Mothers' chorus composed of Mrs. Rose Woodward, Mrs. Thelma Reid and Mrs. Violet Hillyard, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Yantz, sang a group of numbers completing the program.

The Starbuckers were married Oct. 23, 1888, at El Modena in the home of the bride's cousins, Cyndus and Minda Frazier, with Cyrus Lindley as officiating minister.

They immediately made their home in Whittier, where the year before the groom had opened a drug store, the first in the city, with Mit Phillips, later of Santa Ana, as his partner. Ardent Quakers all their lives, the Starbuckers have an enviable reputation in their community, where they are now in the real estate business.

GROUP MEETS AT LUNCHEON

Nine members of the Martha Washington club gathered yesterday afternoon for a luncheon hour at the Rossmore cafe adjoining to the home of Mrs. Bess McDonald, at 404 Broadway and Washington.

Here the group sewed and chatted for the balance of the afternoon. With Mrs. McDonald were Mrs. Inez Baker, Mrs. Hattie Peters, Mrs. Millie West, Mrs. Pauline Decker, Mrs. Florence Summerville, Mrs. Mamie Zimmerman, Mrs. May Curtis and Mrs. Sarah House. Mrs. Sam Jackson and Mrs. May Jackson were unable to attend because of illness and Mrs. Ruth Zable was also absent.

World-Famed Ballet Is Coming

In order that there may be a packed house for the next attraction on the Artists' Concert series, C. L. Pritchard, head of the citizens committee, and Cecil Fross Willis, president of Musical Arts society, today announced that substantial reductions would be made on all three classes of season tickets, good for the next five concerts. They are now on sale at the Santa Ana Book store.

The Ballet Caravan, coming to Santa Ana on November 8, has been hailed from Maine to Cuba and in all the large eastern cities as a distinctive contribution to the American dance scene during the past two years.

The ballet is distinctively American in characters, a rather unusual circumstance. Lincoln Kirstein, founder of the Ballet Caravan, believed that the ballet as presented in this country was a borrowed and stereotyped European art. So, with a small nucleus of American dancers he and the Ballet Caravan have evolved an American dance ballet, which in its approach and entertainment value is far removed from the Russian and French conceptions of the ballet. Combining the best features of the old style, the Ballet Caravan has taken American themes and given them distinctive native treatment. The finest of American composers and artists were obtained to write music and construct settings for the ballet.

Perhaps the most distinctive of the ballets to be presented is "Billy the Kid." The music for this one-act character ballet, was written by Aaron Copeland, with the choreography by Eugene Loring. Many cowboy ballads still trace the myth of William Bonney known to the Mexicans as "El Chivato, or The Kid. He was a heroic incident in the westward march of empire, that period in history when the United States was struggling to develop the lands of the west and every westerner was a law unto himself. Billy was a handsome, charming, courteous boy, fine dancer, a great favorite with the Mexicans and the ranchers' daughters, but he carried the border law of "get home first" before he gets you" to its logical conclusion.

Aaron Copeland uses authentic cowboy songs as melodic material in "Billy the Kid," giving them a finesse and tenderness. The costumes and clothing by Jared French are realistic and the effects are in keeping with the atmosphere of the old west.

PAIR WED HERE HAVE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Of interest to their many local friends was the news that Mr. and Mrs. Alva Starbuck of Whittier celebrated their golden anniversary Oct. 23 in their home there.

The Starbuckers were married Oct. 23, 1888, at El Modena in the home of the bride's cousins, Cyndus and Minda Frazier, with Cyrus Lindley as officiating minister.

They immediately made their home in Whittier, where the year before the groom had opened a drug store, the first in the city, with Mit Phillips, later of Santa Ana, as his partner. Ardent Quakers all their lives, the Starbuckers have an enviable reputation in their community, where they are now in the real estate business.

Couple RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Jones whose wedding occurred in late spring have returned from a deferred honeymoon trip which took them to San Francisco, Sacramento and Yosemite.

Mrs. Jones was Miss Elsie Siemen before her wedding. They will make their home on Bush street.

MRS. MANNING IS HOSTESS AT AFFAIR

X. N. O. club's regular meeting this week turned out to be a particularly delightful party, for, with Mrs. J. D. Manning as hostess in her home at 214 West Orange road, several guests were included. Mrs. Roy Taylor of Plains, Kan., and Mrs. Donald Taylor of Enid, Okla., who are visiting Mrs. B. A. McPhee, were enjoyable additions to the group.

As were Miss Theda Taylor of Santa Ana, and Mrs. S. K. Hershey, mother of the hostess, just returned from a year and a half's stay in the East.

Knowing that it was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. E. E. Edwards, the group had brought her pretty gifts, and at the refreshments hour, Mrs. Manning brought in a beautifully decorated cake. This further enhanced the charm of the lace-spread table with its centerpiece of yellow baby chrysanthemums, pastel tapers, and pastel napkins and napkins.

Members present with Mrs. Manning were Mrs. A. R. Bennett, Mrs. E. E. Edwards, Mrs. W. R. Edwards, Mrs. R. A. McPhee, Mrs. E. E. Perry, Mrs. H. R. Trott, Mrs. Warren Webb and Mrs. B. A. Hershey.

CRITICISM OF BANKS HELD TO BE UNSOUND

That the nation's banks are undeserving of the criticism that has been tossed at them in past months is the opinion of A. I. Mellenthin, president of the First National bank of this city. In an interview today Mr. Mellenthin commented: "Banks have been criticized from many quarters for not lending more freely to industry. The inference is, of course, that business recovery is being retarded because banks are restricting credit."

"Today there is not the demand for loans that many people believe exists. And to say that banks refusing to make loans has created that situation is putting the cart before the horse. That situation, due to business conditions the past few years, has deprived the banks of their loan market to a great extent. And it's only fair to remind business and the public that banks cannot create a demand for industrial loans. It is up to general business optimism and confidence to do that."

"When anyone tells you that banks are refusing to make loans, it is proper to remind them that common sense, good banking practice and laws and regulations demand the refusal of unsound loans. All banks welcome sound loans as A-1 income-producing investments for idle funds. Today, banks in this trade territory and throughout the nation are making every effort to attract responsible borrowers."

Questioned about local conditions and the demand for loans, Mr. Mellenthin said, "There are indications that business in this section is making gains and that the demand for credit is picking up as a result. In the past 12 months, our local loans have totaled $4,000,000, an amount that has a decided effect in stimulating business activity. We hope for greater volume in the coming 12 months."

Dental Profession Gives Blessing To the Toothpick

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Emily Post and other etiquette arbiters may not agree, but

The dental profession, Dr. Isador Hirschfeld of Columbia university told a dental convention the toothpick should be restored to the favor it once enjoyed when it was carried in a neat gold or ivory case on gentlemen's looped watch chains and in women's beauty kits.

Dr. Hirschfeld said toothpicks help prevent pyorrhea and other mouth diseases.

Father, Daughter Sue Over Wealth

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Trial of the suit of James Cruise, former film director of renown, against his daughter, Julie Jane, 24, in which he seeks the return of $150,000 worth of property, was underway in superior court today.

The daughter claimed the property was bequeathed her when her father owed the federal and county governments large sums of money.

Cruise, asking the court to give him clear title to the property, denied the claims of his daughter.

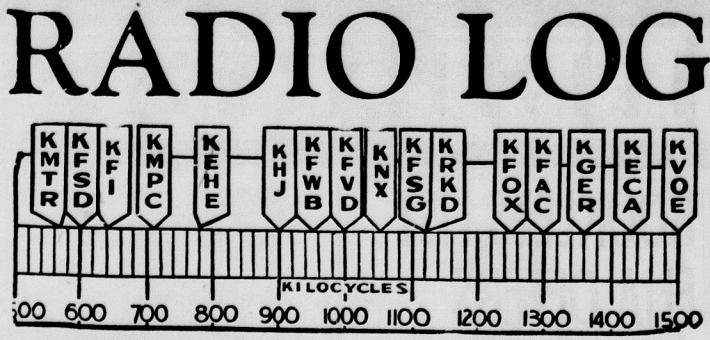

Mississippi farmers cored 2,073, 929 pounds of pork in 45 cold storage plants during the 1937-1938 season.

TUSTIN MAN NEW LEADER OF POULTRY UNIT

New officers of the poultry department of the Orange County Farm Bureau had taken office today following the annual election meeting in farm bureau hall.

Frank E. Jones of Tustin was re-elected chairman of the department for the ensuing year, and A. F. Schroeder was elected vice chairman. A. J. Heinemann of Orange was named director to represent the department on the farm bureau board of directors.

Eggs formed the principal subject of discussion, with Clarence Wirth, inspector of the bureau of fruit and vegetable standardization, being the featured speaker. He said that because of the standardization laws, the chance of getting poor eggs on the retail market is exceedingly slim.

Quality of eggs has greatly increased, he said, as the bad eggs have been kept off the market by the standardization laws. Three years ago, he said, half the eggs were storage eggs; now the law provides that fresh eggs be so marked so the purchaser knows whether he is getting fresh or storage eggs.

REMAIN AN ANGEL IN EYES OF YOUR HUSBAND SAYS "BOZO"

"To tell or not to tell?" A wife presented her rather unusual problem through this column. In her late teens she made two mistakes that she is not proud of, but realizing it, she lived them down. At 25 she married a man who has always adored her and for three years they've been very happy. He deliberately told her he'd been "no angel" but when she tried to say that she wasn't either he wouldn't permit her to say anything and has recently her like a queen, until recently.

He has been associating with people and reading books that are making him cynical—suspicious. After three years he is dropping hints about his wife's conduct before he met her. Shall she tell him about these two mistakes of long ago, or if he insists on knowing, shall she tell a white lie to save both his happiness and hers? The first to answer her is a man and she should take courage from his reply:

Dear Miss Stoddard: Should a girl tell her husband she made a couple of mistakes in her youth, or should she keep them hidden away as young and foolish before he

MARY HAMPTON

Will Help You With Your Clothes Problem. Write Her!

Dear Miss Hampton.—Please help me, won't you? I am just running around in circles for I don't know what to buy for the coming season. I work in an office and would appreciate your advice very much. I have from last year a black tailored suit—heavy wool navy dress—green skirt and sweater—and wine accessories. I have just added a wine skirt with blue coat-sweater, but am in the dark over just what other kind of clothes to get. I'm planning on getting a sort of kind of a plaid jacket but don't know just what. I'm also planning on making myself a striped dress, for I saw a little, but don't know what color. Should it be navy blue with different colors in it? Do you think I need more skirts and sweaters? I'm fair-skinned and have brown hair a little darker than blonde. Can't you help me out? PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled: A touch of grey (terribly smart this season anyway) would just round out your color scheme and untangle some of the knots, too. First, however, buy smart town accessories for the black suit plus a sophisticated gray sweater and a very smart black hat, with wine quill. A good suit deserves good accessories. Then see to it that the new plaid jacket is a combination of black, grey and wine. Also get a grey skirt. These suit accessories will then go wonderfully with the plaid jacket and either skirt. And the wine accessories (plus a new wine hat) will go with the plaid jacket and grey skirt wonderfully well. Next use these wine accessories with both the navy and the green frocks—and let the new winter coat be wine also. Then the new wool frock to be made must necessarily have wine in its plaid or it could be just monotone—a grey wool with wine belt! There—you will have a perfect business woman's wardrobe. For dress-up you should have something else. Still that be a velvet dress and still other, dresser accessories for this same coat—or an ensemble?

MARY HAMPTON

Dear Mrs. A.F.M.: Yes, a wine coat will be nice for fall—to match your wine dress. And then change the white trimming on the black dress to something sparkling in wine red, too. Matching shoes are hard to beat—and I think I'd have a wine hat too—only touched off with a contrast such as blue or gold. And then repeat this in jewelry.

MARY HAMPTON.

Tell her quick, on the authority of a tough bozo, who, although respectable today, is haunted by the shadow of a turbulent youth in all, absolutely all, quarters of the globe, to never tell a man anything on the principle that what he doesn't know won't hurt him!

I am married to a fine woman, one of the best, and I would count myself a sap if I thought she was not popular as a kid. She is popular today, but it doesn't bother me—just proved my good judgment—as a picker, or my good luck in being picked.

Plane Hits Tree; Two Men Killed

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Salvatore Marino, 20, of New York, died early today several hours after an airplane crash that also killed his companion, Herbert Freese, 27-year-old Freeport, L. I., pilot. Freese died soon after their two-seated monoplane hit the top of a tree and crashed while landing last night on a football practice field.

A number of local doctors will attend the session, at which principal lecturer is to be Dr. Lloyd H. Ziegler, associate medical director of Milwaukee sanitarium, at Wausau, Wis., and a noted figure in the field of neurology and psychiatry.

MAJOR BOWES' LUXURY LINER PROGRAM

A quarter of a century ago Dodge created a fact, a fact that defied adequate description. Inherent in all Dodge cars, from Old Bods through the succeeding years, there was an intangible quality, an innate ruggedness that set Dodge apart from other cars.

For years, while Dodge was proving this quality over and over again—in Mexico, on the World war battlefields and on American streets and highways—owners, with a gift for words, sought in vain for one word, one significant word to tell the Dodge superiority story.

Finally, in 1923, an inspired writer added two words together to coin an entirely new word, a word that up until then was not in the dictionary. The two words were "dependable" and "ability." The inspired new word was "Dependability."

Hear the story of the new 1938 Dodge Luxury Liner from Major Bowes' own lips on October 27th.

Tune in on KNX or your favorite Columbia network station at 6 P. M. next Thursday for an hour with Major Bowes.

National WASHER AND IRONER WEEK
October 23 to 29

Every Home Should Have These Two Work-Savers

Modern Electric Washers Save Their Own Cost

1. With a modern home laundry the average family can save from $75 to $125 a year.
2. Modern electric washers clean clothes faster, better, and with less wear.
3. Modern electric washers launder everything from the sheerest fabrics to the heaviest blankets with the minimum of labor.
4. The money saved with a modern electric washer can be spent for other things that the family cannot afford now.
5. Low prices, low down-payments and low terms make it possible for every family to own a modern 1938 electric washer—and pay for it with the money it saves.

"Sit Down" Ironing Is Faster and Easier

1. With a modern home laundry the week's washing and ironing can be done quickly and easily in from 3 to 5 hours.
2. Modern ironers are easy to operate and do beautiful work.
3. The average time required to iron various articles with a modern ironer is estimated at two minutes for a sheet—four minutes for a table cloth—less than a minute for a towel.
4. A modern ironer saves time, saves trouble, and saves energy.
5. A modern electric ironer and washer can be purchased today for less than the washer alone cost a few years ago. See them today.

CONSTRUCTION DURING WINTER SOUND, SAFE

A number of building "boggles" have been put to rest permanently by advances in construction methods and introduction of new materials developed in recent years. Among them is the idea that it is unwise to build in the late autumn or winter.

Records of the Federal Housing Administration's activities show that many new residences were started during the fall and winter. Actually the reasons that autumn building has been unpopular in the past were that dwellings built for sale or rent came on the market at a time when all renters were under lease and when prospective purchasers had to be shown properties under adverse weather conditions.

There is some advantage in starting construction in the fall or in early winter. Contractors are usually looking for work that will enable them to keep their organizations intact during the dull period; the trades are anxious to keep busy. Material dealers are eager for orders to keep their staffs busy and to pay overhead on their establishments and organizations. These groups are usually willing to make concessions in order to get business.

WEATHERSTRIPS

Metal weatherstrips placed on windows will be of assistance in keeping down fuel bills during the winter months. These strips also help make a room more livable. The property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration affords a home owner a means of obtaining funds for such improvements.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. What causes mildew to form on outside painted surfaces?

A. This is frequently due to the fact that the paint is soft because of excess oil and the area where the mildew forms is damp or well shaded.

Q. We generally have mild winters where I live. I have been told that I might save money by building my new house in winter. Is this true?

A. Broadly speaking, it is true. There is less building in winter and therefore prices are frequently lower. There is a more plentiful supply of labor at hand and builders who want to carry their organizations over the slack period intact will often make some concessions in their charges. You might get bids and see for yourself.

Q. We have decided to fix our backyard up and make a real garden out of it. I am told that much of this work should be done in the fall. Can you tell me what I should do at this time?

A. The fall of the year is a particularly favorable time to undertake the improvement of your rear yard. Most of the hardy ornamental trees, shrubs, vines and perennials can best be moved at this time of the year. The fall is also a particularly advantageous season for the sowing of grass seed, because of the freedom from competition with weeds. The construction of a lawn should not be deferred too long, however.

Q. The tiles of my bathroom wall have small brown lines running through them. Can anything be done to get rid of them?

A. No. If you object to this, the only thing to do is replace the tiles.

BLIND VOYAGE

Theodore (Teddy) Raynor and Hugo Albright sign up for a cruise on the motor yacht, the Golden Gull, though they are warned by Denis Graham, another prospective passenger, that there is danger. He says that their late fathers once headed a secret society, the Order of the Golden Gull, of which he was a member, and he believes there is a menacing connection between this and the cruise. He tries to make Teddy miss the boat, but a mysterious stranger rescues her. The latter proves to be Roy Parrin, ex-convict, a former cruise passenger. Others aboard are Dr. Smitting, who is in charge; the beautiful Charis Winslow, a friend of Graham's; Cecil Stoddard, wealthy playboy, and his wife; Mrs. Marvis, author; John Carper, millionaire, and Professor Turner. The stewardess, after trying to sell secret information to Teddy, is found murdered. Then some one wrecks the radio apparatus and, that night, the yacht's engines stop. Teddy, awakened at dawn by the stillness, decides to investigate.

CHAPTER XXV

TEDDY rose and dressed quickly, without disturbing her aunt. By the time she reached the deck, the red ball of the sun was rising over the horizon.

She was looking about for a member of the crew to question, when Charis Winslow appeared. "Do you know what's the matter?" asked Teddy.

"No—but Denis and Hugo are up. They've gone to ask the captain."

A few minutes later, Hugo appeared from the direction of the bridge.

"Morning, Teddy. So you're up, too? Bad business again?" asked Charis.

"What did you find out?" asked Charis.

Hugo hesitated. "I'll tell you, but you're to keep it quiet. The captain and Smitting don't want to upset the passengers any more than necessary. The news to be given out is that there has been a slight breakdown which can easily be repaired."

"And the truth?"

"The engines have been seriously damaged, and the man on duty was found drugged," Hugo replied grimly.

"Can the damage be repaired?" asked Teddy.

"Yes—but it will take at least two or three days. To make matters worse, we're off the regular ship routes, with little chance of being sighted. And with the radio beyond repair, well, we're in a flimsy position."

"Where's Denis?" Charis inquired.

"I left him talking to the captain and Smitting. I want to get back and see what they're going to do. Just came to tell you the news."

When he was gone, Teddy and Charis sank into a couple of deck chairs and, for a few minutes, were too dazed by this latest development to speak.

Then, Charis said, "You see now, why Denis tried to keep you from taking this trip."

"So you know about that?" Teddy smiled wryly. "I suppose he has also told you how his little plot with Jake Hatly to keep me ashore was thwarted?"

Charis nodded. "Yes—he said you thought it was that man Parrin who did the trick."

"I'm sure it was Parrin—and I've wondered ever since whether he's behind all this."

"He looks more like the sort of man one pays to do a little job without asking questions," said Charis.

Teddy nodded, then asked impulsively, "Why did you call on me that morning after Mr. Graham had been to see me?"

Charis smiled. "Denis asked me to—wanted me to make friends with you. So you see, I really was just calling to get acquainted."

"It's funny," Teddy murmured. "I was suspicious of both of you then—and now I'm not."

"There are times when we have to trust people on instinct," Charis said quietly. "But let me tell you something about Denis. He may like to lead a mysterious sort of life, but you can take my word for it that he is as fine a man as ever lived."

"He looks as though he has led a very glamorous life," Teddy remarked.

"He has." A soft light came into Charis' eyes. "Life is just bound to be adventurous wherever Denis is."

She was in love with him, Teddy thought suddenly.

"And you?" Teddy asked, after a brief silence. "What about you?"

"I? What do you mean?"

"Jake Hatly called you a 'woman of mystery'." Teddy hesitated, then said frankly, "I—I don't believe that Winslow is your real name."

"It isn't," Charis said slowly. "My name . . . my name is Sarah Ewing."

Teddy stared in amazement. Sarah Ewing! The richest young woman in America! The fabulous young Chicago society woman who so detested publicity and had been so successful in eluding the press that her picture had never been published and her whereabouts and doings were scarcely ever known—only guessed at.

Charis laughed at the expression on Teddy's face.

"Yes," she said, "that's who I am. But if you don't mind, please don't mention it to anyone—except, perhaps, to your aunt and your friend Hugo."

"Mr. Carper knows who you are," Teddy said suddenly. "At least, he talked as though he did."

"Yes—but he respects my wish to remain incognito."

"I'm a bit overwhelmed," said Teddy. "Tell me—how did you come to know my father and to join his secret society?"

"Oh, I just happened to meet him through friends. We liked each other at once. He had a hunch I would be interested in the Order of the Golden Gull, and so he told me about it. I was bored to death with the life I was leading—needed something to interest me—and I thought his scheme was wonderful. I joined the society, and did odd jobs for him right up to the time it was disbanded."

"Jobs? What sort of jobs?"

"Well, you see, I wanted to do more than just help people financially, and so I persuaded your father to give me all kinds of assignments." Charis laughed. "Once, I took a position as a nursemaid for six months."

Teddy remembered Hugo's story. So this was the explanation. "But why?" she asked. "How did that help anyone?"

"We succeeded in keeping together a young couple whose marriage was threatening to go on the rocks. It's a long story."

"I'd love to hear about it," Teddy said eagerly. "And about some of your other experiences."

They were still sitting there talking, when Hugo reappeared, accompanied by Denis Graham and Dr. Smitting.

"More bad news!" he announced bluntly.

"What's happened now?" Teddy asked fearfully.

"Parrin's been injured. We don't know just how. We're on our way to see him. His wife sent an incoherent message up to Dr. Smitting."

With that, Hugo hurried away with the doctor and Denis.

Better Home Can be Built Now for Less Than 1926 Cost, Declared S. A. Lumber Man

Pointing out that people have been accustomed to buy homes, as they buy stocks, at a time when prices are highest and boom conditions prevail, Wilbur Barr of the Barr Lumber company stated yesterday that "smart people will build before the boom."

There are three reasons why prospective home builders have held off building, asserted Barr. Lack of confidence in the future is the first fear that causes postponement of building.

"A home is a life-time investment," Barr said. "It is very postponable. Courage is needed to go ahead, and courage is greatest when boom conditions exist and housing is purchased in volume, the same as stocks, on a sustained rising of prices."

The second factor which is retarding building is lack of appreciation of the fact that more homes and better homes may be had for less money today, and failure to realize that as building demand increases prices will rise, as will rents.

The third factor which Barr cited as causing hesitancy is a general impression that building a home is a complicated process.

"The very recital of the many modern improvements available to the prospective home builder," Barr said, "tend to make the public feel that there is an insuperable task of sifting information about all of these products."

However, he continued, in most communities there is today a one-stop service which makes home building a simple matter. Beginning even with the selection of the homestead, in one form or another the prospective home owner can, in one office, secure complete and competent guidance in all of the details, from plans to financing, with only one organization to look to as the responsible factor.

"Added to this," Barr concluded, "the advent of the single mortgage has reduced the cost of financing. Instead of a first and second mortgage, as was the practice in the past, the home owner today completes the financing in one mortgage, and is able to reduce the balance due each month, with a consequent growth in equity each month. The difference in cost between the new single mortgage procedure and the older practice is shown to run around 10 per cent—a distinct saving to the home owner."

Mr. Barr compared prices of 1926, a big building year, with those of today. One dollar's worth of brick now is 90.4 cents; $1 worth of cement 95.5 cents; $1 worth of lumber 91.1 cents; $1 worth of paint 81.4 cents; $1 worth of heating and plumbing 77.2 cents, and $1 worth of other building materials 94.8 cents.

PROGRAM FOR GARDEN FANS

Garden lovers in Southern California and Arizona will have their innings on the radio starting Monday evening when radio station KFAC, 1300 kilocycles, broadcasts the first of a series of programs entitled, "Mirandy's Garden Patch," which will be released every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 5:15 p. m.

The homespun philosophy of Mirandy, well known air lanes star, emanates from an Ozark garden in these new programs which are sponsored by Smart & Final Co., Ltd., wholesale grocers with warehouses and outlets in more than 50 locations in Southern California, Arizona and Nevada.

Mirandy, star of the new Smart & Final program, has a host of friends and a listening audience that puts her in the top rank of entertainers on the air lanes. "Mirandy's Garden," her new program, will differ entirely from other air features on which this popular artist is heard. It will bring many a chuckle to those who enjoy looking out at the big, bad world through Mirandy's Ozark spectacles.

After determining the parts of a home which require additions, alterations or improvements, the home owner is advised to consult individual contractors who specialize in particular types of work. An estimate of the amount of time required to complete the work, as well as the costs of the labor and materials will be readily procurable.

Doors Smaller Than Older Types

Even so prosaic a thing as a room door reacts to the dictates of style. This may be seen by a comparison of the prevailing dimensions of room doors of today and those of earlier periods.

In colonial times the doors were frequently 3 feet or more in width and less than 6 feet 6 inches high. The doors in Victorian homes were lofty things and were often more than 3 feet in width.

Today the doors of a room are usually not over 2 feet 8 inches in width, and most are about 6 feet 8 inches high. Doors to main rooms should not be less than 2 feet 6 inches wide.

Well Designed Shelves Add To Comfort of Your Home

Shelves may be either a joy forever or an unending nuisance to a housewife. It is a matter of construction.

If a book shelf is located in a dark corner of a room, or if it is too high above the floor, or if it is too deep, it fails to be a convenience. The same holds true for closet and kitchen shelves.

Book shelves should be efficient should be a little over six inches deep. The average book is about five inches deep, and any extra room on the shelf is valueless. Kitchen shelves designed to hold condiments, cans or boxes that are used frequently should not be deeper than actually necessary. Plate shelves should have a minimum depth of 11 inches. This permits double stacks of plates. Dish shelves should be provided with doors to keep out dust.

New shelving and built-in cabinets may be financed under the

Don't Be Alarmed, Folks

The Dies committee investigating un-American activities was given the opportunity to do a great national service in exposing both radical and fascist groups in this country.

The committee has pretty well established the fact that members of the German-American bund are goose-stepping in many a pasture, and communist agents have been foot-loose and fancy free in these United States.

So far, so good. These were conditions that the country needed to know.

Of course the committee is not responsible for statements made by its witnesses, regardless of how silly they may be.

It is, therefore, unfortunate that a Californian was permitted to testify before the committee that the three men who top the Democratic ticket in this state are tied to the communists. Such testimony discredits the entire investigation, for, regardless of how much the strongest Republicans might disagree with the varied opinions of Downey, Olson and Patterson, few would accept seriously the charge that they were allies of the communists.

Furthermore, the election is week after next, and the sensation stirred up yesterday by the Dies committee witness snacks of politics. Had he waited until Nov. 9 to air his charges, they might have been taken more seriously.

The Dies committee should be permitted to continue its inquiry until the country is fully aroused to the menace of communist and fascist but, for its own sake, a little better judgment should dictate its choice of witnesses.

It might also be a good idea to give the Dies committee a vacation until after election.

The Japanese have bombed a British gunboat 200 miles from Hankow, but they probably have some neat apologies for it.

A real discovery: Chief Jones of the RFC says that the business recovery is due to human nature.

No Half Way Basis

We have just heard Lawrence Allen, one of the $30 Every Thursday pension movement's leaders, say in a radio speech that his organization, now claiming 237,197 members, can measure its success by the apparent fear displayed by the banks, the chambers of commerce and the metropolitan newspapers.

Perhaps he has something there. History shows that Californians don't do their campaigning on any halfway basis. Those supporting such a measure always claim it's the people's salvation; and the opposition leans 'way over and declares it is communistic, chaotic, and hangs a large variety of other adjectives on it.

Possibly it's because adjectives are more spectacular than facts—but besides being spectacular, they have had the bad characteristics of allowing the other fellow to claim he's being ridiculed, not reasoned with. He gets something of the same persecution complex as the agitator who gets trampled by a policeman's horse—and he profits thereby.

Maybe it's too late for reasoning, and perhaps the best way to fend off an impractical, bound-to-fail pension measure is to tear our hair and scream.

Whatever happens to "ham and eggs" Nov. 8, we'll always wonder what would have been the result if the opposition to the amendment had stuck to two facts, well established by history:

1. Printing more money is inflation, and inflation does not mean prosperity.
2. No two-medium money system plan can work in one county, one area or one state.

Maybe that Sikora acquittal at Chicago is encouragement to gents striving to be perfect husbands.

Charlie Chaplin vs. Hitler

In barring the films of Charlie Chaplin and other Jewish comedians from their countries, both Hitler and Mussolini are making a tactical mistake.

Because, as long as Germany and Italy were sources of income to the comedians, the picture producers were careful not to allow the stars to poke fun at the dictators.

But now, since not a penny will come from these countries, the bars are down and the boys can have all the fun they want, poking fun at dictators.

Charlie Chaplin, for instance, already is at work on a picture in which he plays two parts—that of his immortal little tramp, and that of a dictator who is the tramp's double. You can imagine the possibilities of this situation, in the hands of a genius like Chaplin.

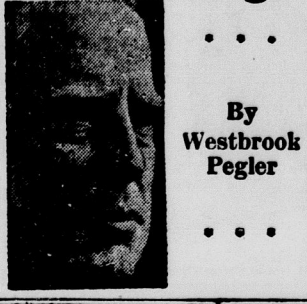

Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini, to keep in power, must feed on pomp and dignity. They cannot rule by love and respect, so it is only by solemnly overawing their subjects and their fees that they can stay in the driver's seat.

Ridicule is the sharpest weapon that can be used against them. Chaplin's satire on Hitler will do the fuhrer more harm throughout the world than all the long-winded speeches of opposing diplomats.

And, by the way—if anyone says Chaplin shouldn't imitate Hitler, the little comedian can retort, "What do you mean, imitate HIM? Why, I made our mutual mustache famous before he had painted his first house in Austria. Hitler's the one who copied MY mustache!"

Whatever did we do for election-time excitement before Hiram Johnson gave us the initiative?

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
NEW YORK.—(U.P.)—There is a down-under school of writing in this country which counterfeits ability with dirty words and blandly helps itself to the assumption that because the world is out of step, with a small element of congenial bums, drunkards and thieves the world is in the wrong. Conclusions are not given, but there is a tendency to argue that communism is the only answer, although there is no evidence from those who have written either for or against communism that the no-goods, incompetents and misanthropes fare any better in the U. S. S. R. than they do here.

THEY FALL EASILY
Persons who have seen bums only in the phony soulfulness of the fiction version created by the dirty-neck and flannel-shirt literati are at a disadvantage in the presence of such reading, for they have no background or personal observation of experience. They fall easily for a suggestion that there, but for the grace of God, go they, which could be so in certain individual cases, forgetting, however, that character, diligence and determination are forces which will always stand between most men and the jungle.

Others, however, who know better, knowing that bums are not local to the United States but exist in all countries which permit men to become bums if that is their bent, instead of forcing them into the ranks of the dead storage camps of the dictator, are not deceived.

There is no more truth in the thought that a bum is a bum from force of circumstances and from no causes existing within himself than there is in the old American superstition that Gypsies kidnap children, preferably children with golden hair and blue eyes.

Possibly some Gypsies did kidnap some children a long time ago, but from the time of Charlie Ross on down through the cases of Katherine Winters, Billy Whitla and Bobby Glass Gypsies have in no famous instance been shown responsible. One wretched father pursued to Central Europe and Central America rumors that his little boy had been seen in the camps of Gypsies, only to find the child's skeleton years afterward in a Pennsylvania mountain thicket not a mile from the summer cottage from which he had wandered off.

NOT CHEATING
The biography of Jack London, the Boswell of the bums, reveals not only an understanding of the type but a community of traits, and while it was inhuman to lack pity for the misery of the milk-dewed bo, as for any suffering creature, it does not follow that to deny him heroic qualities is to cheat him of his due.

There was for a considerable time an Alaskan school of writing known, I believe, as the "God, How the Wind Blew!" school, which would have endowed with superhuman qualities the men who took part in the gold rush. In after years the members of this helter-skelter community by common consent standardized their lies about the hardships and privations of those days in that frozen land, but unfortunately for my own illusions, two of the veterans whom I knew best were two of the most fluent and imaginative liars I ever knew and the third had spent most of his time tending bar and dealing bank in a gambling house.

All of them were, barring very brief ventures out-of-doors, steadily house-cat prospectors who did their adventuring close to a red hot stove, and one often related with no qualms, even after all that time, that his most dependable source of revenue was the cheating of real prospectors who had risked chills and chills through riverlike flow by capturing and channeling ocean tides. Prof. Shepard discovered through the use of a current meter.

The small amount of mud left in its bottom, as well as its other structural features, were studied by means of a core-taking device invented by R. S. Dietz and K. O. Emery, with a special nose trap designed by Prof. Shepard. The device consists of 600-pound streamlined weights, with a 20-foot pipe and a friction-reducing nose. It drops to the bottom at a rate of 13 miles an hour, and is capable of bringing up samples as deep as its length. The longest core brought up thus far, however, is 12 feet.

Bottom samples thus obtained show that there is a very thin layer of mud on the bottom of the canyon, underlain by deeper strata of sand, rounded gravel, or rock. The waterworn gravel was probably formed when the canyon was a terrestrial river bed.

One wall of the outer canyon, where it resembles the Grand canyon of Arizona, is formed of granite, overlain by sedimentary rocks of tertiary age.

LA JOLLA.—(Special)—The Pacific coast's submerged Grand canyon has a swift river that flows along its bottom. Prof. Francis P. Shepard of the University of Illinois reported here upon his return from an exploration of its course for 30 miles, off shore from Monterey. Prof. Shepard's present headquarters are at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, University of California.

The great submarine canyon, which goes to depths of 6,000 feet and is actually contoured like the Grand canyon of Arizona, causes a riverlike flow by capturing and channeling ocean tides. Prof. Shepard discovered through the use of a current meter.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Keep an eye on the political race in Ohio. It is loaded with TNT, especially the senate end of it.

Investigators for the Sheppard committee are now concentrated in Ohio more than in any other political spot in the union, busy checking on reports that armloads of cash are being dumped into the campaign fund of Robert A. Taft, son of the late president and now candidate for the senate against democratic Bob Bulkley.

Investigators say privately that the Taft campaign chest is going to rival that of Newberry, famous senator from Michigan, or Smith, the Insull candidate from Illinois, both of whom were barred from taking their seats.

Big reason for the interest in Taft is that if victorious, the republicans will have a real candidate for 1940—a young senator from a state famous for giving birth to presidents and, above all, a man with a presidential name.

SENATORIAL CLUB
It is significant that the Sheppard investigating committee always humps itself in favor of a sitting senator.

In other words, the old idea that the senate is chiefly a club with the most exclusive membership in America still holds true. Senators who are "in" will always work against candidates who are "out."

Thus both George of Georgia and Tydings of Maryland are reported to have spent well over the amounts laded out by Newberry and Smith, but the Sheppard committee did nothing. They were already "in." In Ohio, however, Sen. Bulkley is one of the boys. He is "in." His rival, Taft, is "out."

NEW ARMY SCHOOL
Nub of the secret plan to develop a reserve corps of trained mechanics and technicians is the establishment of the new army school. Funds for this budget will be included in the 1939 budget now being drafted. Under the plan as submitted to the president by Assistant War Secretary Louis Johnson, the national youth administration will act as the "feeder" for the army school, supplying it with the pick of students attending NYA vocational schools.

BRITISH PRESTIGE
Confidential diplomatic reports indicate that the British loss of prestige as a result of the Munich parley, is far more disastrous to the empire than is generally realized.

It has not leaked out yet, but the British are having trouble even in distant Burma, where the natives are restless, some in revolt.

Various Mohammedan areas under the union jack are chafing at British reprisals against the Arabs in Palestine, while in southwest Africa the German population is demanding a plebiscite for return to Germany.

Most worrisome spot for the British is south China, where the Japanese invasion is attributed directly to the fact that Chamberlain revealed himself as weak-kneed at Munich. South China, guarded by the British stronghold at Hong Kong, is considered Britain's most lucrative trade area in the far east, and in a few weeks the Japanese figure all this will be theirs.

Provided they don't actually touch the isle of Hong Kong, the Japanese figure that the British will do nothing except deliver innocuous notes of protest—and they are probably right.

CABINET ROW

The inside story has never been told how Cordell Hull was overruled on the question of subsidizing wheat exports.

His opponent in the controversy was Henry Wallace, who, with a barn-burning surplus on his hands, had abandoned his traditional opposition and declared for subsidies. He saw Canada subsidizing exports, and knew that the United States would lose its share of the world market if it stood idly by.

But Hull put his foot down. He was sorry about the surplus, but was not willing to abandon his anti-dumping principles to reduce it.

The issue became hot. Finally the two cabinet members put the matter up to the White House. The president agreed with Hull in theory, but saw eye to eye with Wallace on the need to get rid of the surplus wheat. So he ruled in favor of the subsidies.

Later, when Wallace was asked if there was any conflict between himself and the secretary of state, he replied smilingly, "We are always in perfect harmony with the state department."

When Hull was questioned next day on the same point, he replied shortly, "If one cabinet member has expressed himself on the question, that is enough."

About The Bills

NO. 13, REVENUE BOND ACT OF 1937

This act was passed without dissenting vote in the senate and by 65 to 10 in the assembly, then referred to the voters. It authorizes creation of local public utilities commissions to construct or purchase public utilities, and provides that they may issue by a majority vote and sell bonds to defray the costs, with the projects financed from income, and not from taxes.

Proponents, including irrigation districts and the state grange, claim the referendum is being financed by the "power trust." Revenue bonds, they point out, built the Boulder dam, San Francisco bay bridge. Revenue bonds, they say, make possible the paying for public improvements solely from earnings of the improvements themselves, with no possibility of taxation.

Opponents claim the measure's majority-vote provision "makes it easier to get into debt," and say it opens the doors to creation of hundreds of new commissions with dictatorial powers, removing huge blocks of property from the tax rolls. Opponents include the state farm bureau federation and state chamber of commerce.

YOUNG ELI WHITNEY

Years before he had invented the successful cotton gin, which brought him fame and one night say fortune, Eli Whitney, as a mere lad, had displayed unusual mechanical talents in his native town of Westboro, Massachusetts.

The townspeople looked upon him as a prodigy, and well they might, for at the youthful age of 12 he made a perfect violin, which gave him a sense of confidence in pursuing his future inventions.

He was a serious youth, but not without the joy of creativeness in his heart.—Christian Science Monitor

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say in public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag. Please limit communications to 100 words. The editor reserves the right to shorten all letters in excess of that length.

TOWARD LOWER TAXES

To the Editor: California is being flooded with copies of a campaign sheet, the self-advised objective of which is "constructive action in support of good citizenship, sound government, and sensible economics." A recent issue attacking an alleged "single tax scheme" is really a special plea for the continuance of the damnable, extortionate sales tax, enacted as a "temporary measure" under the Ralph administration, but continued on the theory that the "emergency" of years ago has become a permanent feature of state government.

Governor Young not only kept state expenditures within its income, but actually saved aside 30 million dollars a year (sum a generation ago). A spectacular, spendthrift administration followed, under which vast sums were lavished on political favorites, roman bathtubs and pyrotechnic air flights—all at the taxpayers' expense. The present governor poses as an "economist," but opposed removing the unjust and inequitable sales tax from foods served in restaurants, hotels and other eating places. A recent estimate of the income from sales tax alone states that 220 million will be forthcoming from all classes of the people of California within two years.

Whether or not it will be possible to again get an economical administration in California, only time will tell. Certain it is that unlimited taxation will continue the present limitless spending. If we should be fortunate in finding another Young or a personally parsimonious Calvin Coolidge somewhere in the cow counties or the metalliferous mountains, maybe we can have a real housecleaning of highly paid, low-powered officials, and thus save enough money (as we always did before the thrifless '30s) to pay for "schools, bond interest and redemption, unemployment relief, old age pensions, maintenance of charities and other services of government," and still get along without the whippersnapper who now daily bleeds the wage-earner and careful housewife.

What Other Editors Say

VOTE 'NO' ON NO. 20
California voters more and more are turning away from the campaign which cloaks the single tax, proposition No. 20 on the November ballot, and proponents of the measure appear to be getting considerably upset over the fact.

Mr. Frank A. Scofield, president of the California Association of Manufacturers, has summed up the situation tellingly. He believes that the single tax would create such an uncertainty that business enterprises would slow down forcing people now working out of employment.

Whenever the cost of production increases at an alarming pace and the demand does not show a corresponding increase, production must be reduced, and consequently men are thrown out of employment. This is just what would happen if the single tax proposal was put into effect.

Double or treble taxes would increase production costs. The consumer, forced to pay more for his living, would reduce his purchases. Production thus would slow down and more people would find themselves without employment.

Mr. Scofield pointed out that business at present is showing some slight increases and that if permitted to operate undisturbed, industry may at least maintain present payrolls.

"However," Mr. Scofield warned, "the effect of the single tax in other places where it has been unsuccessfully tried has shown that it completely wrecks business. It has caused untold suffering wherever tried. The same thing can happen here."

Anyway you look at it, the single tax is the working man's enemy, the enemy of the return of that time when there will be adequate work for all.—Salinas Morning Post.

THE CLASSES

Constantly advancing prices of meat are dividing the people into two classes.

Yes, those with large incomes and vegetarians.

BY BOB BURNS

Maybe one reason why the police force is beginnin' to shut down on crime so much is because the public is beginnin' to take an active interest in the police force. The taxpayers are beginnin' to realize that they have a right to expect some service from the people they pay to enforce the law.

The other day a big headline appeared in the paper that said, "Man found murdered! Police at sea." My aunt pointed at the headline and said, "No wonder there's so much crime in this town—with the police force all out deep sea fishin'!"

Philosophy

Who, in your estimation, is "the most resplendent figure in the history of the human race?" Thomas Craven in his book, "Men of Art," awards that exalted title to the illegitimate son of a poor peasant girl and a lawyer of Florence, who gave him parental aid. This son was born exactly 40 years before Columbus discovered America. His name was Leonardo da Vinci.

His half brothers and sisters, a quarrelsome lot, jealous of his superior gifts, drove him away from home. But Leonardo, forgave them; and in his will, he left a part of his estate to his swinish brothers who had begged money from him and then condemned him and double-crossed and despoiled him.

Leonardo is famous for more diversified gifts than any other man in history. Here is just a partial list of the things he mastered. He founded the science of engineering and geology and the study of anatomy. He mastered geometry, made maps, invented a diving bell and swimming belt. He also invented the military tank, roller bearings, the lowly wheel barrow, made drawings of airplanes driven by a propeller over four hundred years ago. He invented many kinds of military machines and a cure for seasickness.

But wait, I have not even mentioned the thing for which he is really famous. He painted two immortal pictures, two pictures that shine across the turbulent centuries like brilliant stars and glorify the treasure house of mankind. Da Vinci's masterpiece, "The Last Supper," is the most famous picture in the world; and his other masterpiece, the "Mona Lisa," hangs upon the walls of the Louvre in Paris where lovers of beauty from every land stand before it each day, enthralled as though it were some holy shrine. Leonardo da Vinci had several qualities that you and I ought to cultivate:

1. He had infinite patience. For example, he struggled for 18 years to perfect an equestrian statue and never did finish it because his work was finally destroyed by an invading army.
2. He had great tolerance. "We have no right," he said, "to love or hate anything unless we have full knowledge of it." (How often do we criticize and condemn people and conditions about which we have not "full knowledge? We don't have a really full knowledge even of ourselves.)
3. He had the ability to hold his temper and forgive insults. Michael Angelo, jealous of him, insulted him in front of other people, but Leonardo da Vinci merely "smiled at the impudence of youth and said nothing." (Can we always smile and say nothing when we are insulted in front of others?)

But with all his greatness and his abiding fame, he missed one of the most beautiful—perhaps the most beautiful thing in life—the love of a woman. During all his life, he had very few friends, and none of them were women.
